The run started in Lowell, stopped at St. Dorothy's Church as it passed through Wilmington, and concluded in Boston. Abduction attempted

Incident on Church Street treated as suspicious

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Authorities are investigating an incident in which a man allegedly surprised and grabbed the arm of a local 12-year-old.

Three Wilmington youths were riding their bicyles toward Rotary Park on Church Street on Saturday, June 19, when an adult male reportedly leapt out of the bushes next to the post office and grabbed the shirt sleeve of one of them. The incident allegedly took place at approximately 6:30 p.m.

No words were exchanged, but the youth was able to pull his arm away from the suspect, who then turned and walked away.

The three youths proceeded directly to the Public Safety Building further down Church Street to report the episode to the Wilmington Police Department.

The youths described the suspect as a balding Asian man between the ages of 30 and 40. The suspect stood approximately 5 feet, 6 inches tall and wore a tan and red vertically striped shirt with khaki pants. He is said to have a deformity of some kind around his mouth.

Police officers immediately reported to the scene of the alleged incident but were not able to find anyone fitting the suspect's description.

Later, one of the three youths spotted a man who may have been the suspect driving a navy blue, mid-size pickup truck down Middlesex Avenue in the direction of Main Street. Officers in cruisers were alerted, but they were unable to locate the truck.

An investigation of the allegations is ongoing.

"This is extremely suspicious behavior on the part of an adult," Wilmington Police Chief Robert Spencer said. "It was obviously very traumatic for the youths involved."

According to a close friend of the victim's family, who wished not to be identified, everyone is very thankful that matters turned out the way they did.

"Only by the grace of God did they get away," the friend said. "I don't know why the press was not notified. It wasn't on any of the news that night. People in this town should be aware of what happened."

A teletype was quickly issued to the law enforcement agencies of all the surrounding communities when the incident was reported. A second one was issued upon receiving a description of the pickup truck. According to Chief Spencer, other agencies will sometimes

Wilmington Memorial Library

Nominations sought for next Wilmington Reads book

Which novel will follow the success of Empire Falls?

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - Wilmington Reads, the popular program sponsored by the Wilmington Memorial Library, is currently writing its second chapter.

Between now and Friday, July 9, local readers are invited to visit the library on Middlesex Avenue and nominate a book that they would like the community to read together.

The idea is a proven success. Last August, residents nominated as many as 70 books when Wilmington Reads kicked off its inaugural effort. The Wilmington Reads Committee whittled the entries down to three finalists, "Seabiscuit," "To Kill a Mockingbird" and "Empire Falls."

After weeks of voting, residents chose "Empire Falls," Richard Russo's tale of downtrodden folks in a luckless town in Maine. The novel won the Pulitzer Prize a few years ago.

Throughout last winter, "Empire Falls" was checked out of the Wilmington Memorial Library approximately 600 times. Events in March that related to the book drew an average of 300 people.

"This program was so successful," says Library Director Tina Stewart.

To nominate a book this time around, readers can fill out a form at the library or online at www.wilmlibrary.org.

According to Stewart, nominated books should reflect universal issues with which people deal regularly. The book should also lend itself to discussion and be widely available in print and audio. Furthermore, the book should be available in paperback, so that the library can purchase it in bulk at a modest price.

"The book should also be appropriate for high school students to read as well as adults," Stewart says. "The book should appeal to both groups. We want to get a story that will engage them."

Caira shares memories of Reagan

"He was very genuine," town manager says of the nation's 40th president

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - It was 1985 when Michael Caira first found himself shaking the hand of President Ronald Reagan in the Oval Office of the White House. The second time came in 1987.

Back then, Caira, who for the past 14 years has been the town manager of Wilmington, was the National Executive Director of the Sons of Italy. He found himself standing not once, but twice, in the highest office in the land when he and a handful of others from the Sons of Italy introduced their new president to the nation's Commander in Chief.

"He was very genuine," Caira recalls about the times he met Reagan. "He was a good, kind man who was a tremendously effective communicator. You feel a lot of anxiety when you walk into the Oval Office to meet the leader of the free world, but he made you feel comfortable in a situation in which it's hard to feel comfortable. He didn't make you feel rushed. He treated you as though he wanted you to be there. It was awe-inspiring."

All of these years later, Caira can still recall the details in the Oval Office that elevated its already powerful yet plain design to uniquely reflect its occupant. There were little statues of cowboys. Pictures of the First Family.

And, of course, on the desk, there was a jar of jelly beans.

Such images, seen by Caira, warmly assumed to exist by those who never met this president, have achieved a greater poignancy in these weeks since Reagan died at the hands of

Wilmington is ready for the 4th of July

"The fireworks are going to be even more spectacular"

A supplement inside this edition of the Town Crier is your guide to all the fun

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - It's that time of the year again, when red, white and blue fireworks light up the night sky while families and friends celebrate below.

When it comes to throwing the United States a birthday bash, many will agree that there's no place like Wilmington. Every year since 1977, the 4th of July Committee has seen to it.

"The committee formed in 1977," says Dick Searfoss, one of its members. "The people then decided that the celebrations for the 1976 bicentennial went so well that they just wanted to keep going."

Fast forward to 2004. The Fourth of July Committee, which boasts 18 members, is annually able to welcome as many as 40,000 people to the area of the Town Common for a week of concerts, meals, contests, clowns, carnival rides and, naturally, things that go boom in the night.

"The fireworks are going to be even more spectacular this year than they were last year," Searfoss promises. "For quite a few years now, we've been able to spend more than the year before on fireworks."

The fun begins as early as Tuesday, June 29 and lasts

MCCOY TO THE RESCUE. A fire, the origin of which remains a mystery, spread quickly through the mulch and bushes between the Town Crier and Michael's Place on Lowell Street, in Wilmington on Monday afternoon. Selectmen Chairman Michael McCoy, who owns Michael's Place, quickly grabbed the fire extinguisher from his restaurant and snuffed out the flames before they could do further damage. Personnel from the Wilmington Police and Fire Departments also reported to the scene and watered down the property to keep it under control. (Maureen Lamoureux photo)

Tewksbury Post Office to provide Click-n-Ship demonstration

TEWKSBURY - The Tewksbury Post Office, located at 1751 Main Street, will conduct a Click-N-Ship demonstration on Wednesday, June 30, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., showing customers how easy it is to use the mail system without leaving the comfortable confines of their home or office.

"With just a click of the mouse you can print shipping labels with or without postage for Express Mail and Priority Mail," according to Postmaster Joanna M. Louf, "and you letter carrier can take your postage paid package when delivering your mail."

Free compact disks explaining the new service will be available and refreshments will be served.

She explained the Click -N-Ship service requires a computer with an Internet connection and a laser or high quality inkjet (600 DPI) printer.

"To print labels with postage, simply register on www.usps.com and pay for postage online with your credit card. The labels will print with PC postage indicia," she explained.

Louf said once a person is registered, they will fill in the mailing address and weight of the mailpiece, and the rates will be calculated automatically. Users will then be asked to choose between Express Mail or Priority Mail and whether they want to print and pay for postage or print without postage.

"Once you've printed the label, you will get a confirmation screen with your label number to use for checking the delivery status on the Track and Confirm site. If you print a label with postage, you will get an e-mail confirmation," she said.

The postal official said mailing the Express Mail or Priority Mail piece can be accomplished on one of several ways: Deposit the item with PC postage labels in a street collection box, give it to your letter carrier, schedule a pickup online or bring it to a post office.

More information can be obtained online at www.usps.com/clicknship.

It's Your Money
by Joyce Brisbois

WHO GETS YOUR IRA?

Your IRA – and other retirement plans, like 401(k)s – are non-probate assets. The beneficiaries are named on the account and not subject to terms of your will.

While you could leave your retirement funds to your estate, and your will's specifications, it would not be smart, taxwise. That's because your estate, with no life expectancy of its own, must pay taxes almost immediately. If the money is left to a spouse, it can be rolled over into an IRA; funds left to other individuals can stay invested and tax-deferred with minimum distributions – and income tax liability – spread over their own life expectancies. It's often advisable to separate an IRA into several accounts to ease the distribution after the owner's death.

What you don't want to do is give too much to Uncle Sam. The IRS now checks to find out if people over 70 1/2 are taking distributions. If not the penalty is 50 percent of the minimum.

You always get good advice from the tax people at:

Defense Department starts nationwide competition

The Department of Defense has formally announced the beginning of a standard competition for U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Information Management/Information Technology functions, in accordance with Office of Management and Budget Circular A-76 (revised). This is a nationwide competition, and will include more than 1,300 positions throughout the Corps, including 18 positions in New England District.

The IM/IT services included in the competition are: (1) automation services and systems support, (2) communications services and systems support, (3) information assurance service and support, (4) record management services and support, (5) printing and publication services, (6) visual information services, and (7) IM/IT Administration and Manage-ment. There are approximately 1,350 positions and 550 different contractors currently providing these services at 45 Corps site throughout the United States.

The competition will take 18 months to complete, and is scheduled to end on Nov. 29, 2005. There is no request for proposals at this time; however, a draft request will be issued in November 2004 for comment. A second notice will be issued when the final request for proposals is released.

The announcement of a competition does not obligate the Government to award any contract. Under the A-76 standard competition procedure , the in-house government organization currently performing the work will be allowed to compete against the private sector and other public reimbursable service providers for the referenced work. Accordingly, a contract may or may not be awarded as a result of the competition.

This competition is being conducted as part of the President's Management Agenda, which requires all federal agencies to streamline and become more effective.

OPINION

From the Editor's Desk

By Shawn P. Sullivan

Wilmington Reads

The first foray of the Wilmington Reads program proved a best seller with local readers, so it's no wonder that the staff at the Wilmington Memorial Library is eager to invite the public to join them in cracking open another good book.

You should be eager too. The Wilmington Reads program is a terrific forum for residents to band together with a common interest, escape into a fictional world perhaps not unlike our own, and enjoy each other's company during a number of planned events.

According to Library Director Tina Stewart, residents have between now and Friday, July 9, to nominate a book that they would like to see the community read together. This can be done by swinging by the library on Middlesex Avenue, filling out a nomination form and slipping it into a box. It can also be done by logging onto the Internet, visiting www.wilmlibrary.org and clicking on the right link to complete and submit a form.

Between July 9 and 19, the Wilmington Reads Committee, which has a good eye for material, will shrink the list of nominees to three. Between July 19 and August 14, residents will be able to choose which of the three final titles that they'd like to read.

This has worked before. Last year, during the program's inaugural effort, as many as 70 books were nominated. From that list, the Wilmington Reads Committee anointed as finalists tales of a heroic race horse, a spirited little girl whose father was a lawyer of impeccable character, and downtrodden folks in a luckless Maine mill town.

Surely, you remember their titles: "Seabiscuit," "To Kill a Mockingbird," and "Empire Falls." It was that last title that won what was ultimately a tight three-way race and, soon enough, the hearts of hundreds of local readers.

In "Empire Falls," Wilmington readers found a book by Maine author Richard Russo that was observant and wicked in its humor, poignant and aching in the disappointment and compromises of its characters, and studied and vivid in its depiction of a small town with bleak prospects.

In other words, local readers picked a winner. They've done it once and, with this second chapter of the Wilmington Reads Program, they can do it again.

According to Stewart, there are a few guidelines as to which books can be nominated. For starters, your book of choice must reflect universal issues, timeless themes with which everyday folks deal. The book should also be the kind of story to prompt discussion. The title also has to be available as a paperback or audio book, so that it can be purchased by the library in bulk at a more affordable price.

Lastly, your pick should be appropriate for both teenagers and adults to read. Before the end of the school year this month, library staffers delivered nomination forms to the high school, in the hope that students would scoop them up and submit them.

The Town Crier urges those teenagers to give the program a shot. It is from experience that I assure you that reading and discussing books as a teenager leads to an interest in the finer books when you are an adult.

As a teenager, I rarely liked the books I was forced to read in English class. I enjoyed "Frankenstein" a great deal, but I equated reading, say, "Great Expectations" and "Ethan Frome" with having my teeth pulled or my fingernails dragged across the chalkboard.

By the time I had to read "The Good Earth," by Pearl Buck, I had had enough. Sure, I dutifully read the book, but whole chapters would pass without me absorbing a single word. Even today, all I can remember about the book is its cover, which I think showed a Chinese man working in a field.

I flunked every quiz about the book. My teacher and my parents, fearing that I had a reading disability, arranged to have me tested. Sure enough, for a whole week, I reported to the remedial reading room every morning and took a battery of tests. I aced every one of them.

The administrator of the tests analyzed my results and reported back to my teacher and my parents. "Basically," she said, "he just doesn't like the books you're making him read."

I could have told them that.

Here's the thing, though. Students are assigned to read such books by their English teachers not so they can master the classics at so young an age, but so that they will hopefully return to such books as adults. Sure enough, there are a few classics, such as "Great Expectations" and "The Great Gatsby," that I've given another crack during the past few years.

"The Good Earth," I grant you, has not been among them.

The Town Crier encourages you to nominate a book for the Wilmington Reads program that will entertain you, yes, but also challenge you and enlighten you and possibly inspire you to read more books afterwards that will do the same.

Standing Eight Count

by Stephen Bjork

You gotta have fun even at the expense of others.

Everyone, with the notable exception of the victim, loves a good practical joke. I have personally found small children to be especially easy targets.

I would like to pass along a great idea for a practical joke that you can try at your family 4th of July barbeque. I tested this during my own Memorial Day cook-out and it went off without a hitch.

To pull this off you will need a minimum of three small children, or perhaps dimwitted adults, and several common household items; such as a small stuffed animal, 3-feet of string, a baby monitor, and an animal hole of some sort in your yard. I just happen to have a hole in my backyard made by a small burrowing animal but don't be afraid to dig a hole for the purpose of this joke. It is worth it.

We had the grill going and people were milling about when the hole was discovered by my 6-year-old niece and her 4-year-old twin brothers.

"What lives in that hole, Unk?" they asked with eyes wide.

The entire joke hinges on this moment. Yes, you could wimp out and tell them that a cute little furry animal, such as a chipmunk or maybe a rabbit lives very cozily in the hole, but c'mon; what fun is that?

"A schnozzel lives in that hole," I told them.

That's about all it takes to get this joke off the ground. Then all the questions start flying in from all directions regarding the appearance, habits, and general demeanor of schnozzels.

To make a long story short, a schnozzel is a bluish-grey furred creature about a foot long with a bushy tail, short legs, and very sharp teeth. Its two front teeth stick straight out in front of it so that it can spear its prey just by running right at it. It is a vicious and vile creature that hates people and especially children. Many a child has had the back of their legs stabbed by nasty schnozzels.

Just to be perfectly clear; there is no such thing as a schnozzel. I made the whole thing up for the joke. Feel free to change the story to suit your audience, but don't lay it on too thick yet. Scare them too much too early and you can just forget about the rest of the joke. My niece and nephews weren't sure whether I was kidding or not, which is the best possible scenario.

They were fascinated by the hole and each of them attested to never having seen a schnozzel before in their whole lives. They walked slowly around the hole and tried to peer inside from safe distances. The questions never stopped.

"Yes," I told them, "a schnozzel could definitely beat up a Tyrannosaurus Rex in a fight."

The kids were leery, but desperately wanted to see a real live schnozzel. I suggested that we set-up a Schnozzel Trap to see if he was home. I tied a small stuffed mouse, a cat toy really, to a long piece of string and lowered into the hole past the point where it could be seen from the outside. I told the kids that we could check back on it in about an hour of so.

Children are easily distracted and while their parents and my wife kept them occupied, I grabbed the stuffed mouse and brought it into the house. After shredding it with a razor blade, I discreetly put it back into the hole and then casually suggested that we check the bait.

My niece pulled on the string until what was left of the mouse came jumping out of the hole like some low-budget horror flick. The kids were beside themselves. Their jaws hit the floor as they stared in disbelief at the eviscerated mouse.

"There really is a schnozzel!" exclaimed one of the twins with his head in his hands.

There was no longer any doubt. Schnozzels were real and most definitely dangerous.

The day was still young, so a little bit later I went into the house and grabbed the baby monitor out of the closet.

For those of you without children; a baby monitor is a device very similar to a walkie-talkie, but with which only one party may communicate. The transmitting end is placed in the infant's room and picks up any and all sound being made anywhere in the neighborhood and transmits it, with a convenient volume enhancement of approximately 100-times, to the wireless-speaker portion being "monitored" by the parents.

For the dads out there; a baby monitor is the thing that drowns out the sound of your television at night.

I hid the speaker part inside the hole and covered it with leaves and set up the transmitter in my family room near the window.

Then I waited.

Finally it happened. One of the twins wandered dangerously close to the schnozzel hole and I made some pretty impressive growling and roaring noises into the transmitter.

Everyone is familiar with the term, but have you ever actually seen a small child "freak-out"? I have to admit that I never had.

The kids were running around in circles and hiding behind adults and demanding firearms for protection; it was really funny.

I'm not ashamed to admit that I, a grown man mind you, spent a significant amount of that beautiful sunny day crouched under my family room window making all sorts of unspeakably fierce animal noises into a baby monitor - it was all for the kids.

I'd do it again too. I'd do anything for the kids. They loved it and, according to their parents, still reminisce about the "scary" schnozzel nearly every night. It's nice to be able to create life-long memories. Apparently, since that day, the children refuse to sleep in their own beds and will only sleep with their parents, but I'm sure it is only an unrelated passing phase. Those kids had a great time.

I have been asked to share the joke with some very nice people representing the Department of Social Services. I can only assume that they may want to share the joke with other children.

Summer memories of a stuck '57 Plymouth and a pantless friend

In the mid Sixties, the North Wilmington parking lot was always a fun place to hang out. Occasionally, there was somewhere more interesting to go, maybe an amusement park, Pleasure Island or Nantasket Beach, or maybe just an afternoon kayaking trip in Ballardvale.

On Sunday afternoon, July 12, 1964, a half dozen fellows went to Miami, a kayak/boat rental place in Ballardvale. There were two such rental places on the Shawsheen River, the other called Alaska.

Miami was a country spot near Lowell Junction, down a dirt road, across the tracks and into the woods. The kayaks at Miami were simple home-made boats with a canvas skirt, nothing compared to modern kayaks. But 40 years ago, it was possible to rent a boat on local bodies of water, such as Foster's Pond, Silver Lake or the Shawsheen. You'd probably have to bail a few times, but the price was right. Don't forget the bug spray.

One man on that kayak trip was nicknamed "Newsbag." He left his 1957 Plymouth in the parking lot and rode to Ballardvale with friends. The group rented some kayaks and went out on the river. They were well-lubricated, and proceeded to have a wild time. For some unknown reason, Newsbag took off his pants before he got into the kayak, and stashed them in the vessel. He was covered by the canvas, so it was no big deal . . . until his buddies dumped him over.

Newsbag managed to right the boat and get back in, but his pants, meanwhile, floated downstream.

Sometime later, the crowd returned to the North Wilmington parking lot, and a few of them piled into Newsbag's Plymouth, a blue and white two-door sedan. The Plymouth had tail fins, giant, outrageous tail fins. In the late 1950s, Detroit went on a tail fin kick, and the '57 Plymouth had fins that looked like they could make the car fly. At that time, the town kept a sand pile in the back of the parking lot, year round. During winter storms, Walter "Porky" Meuse would load the town sand trucks there.

Newsbag and his pals had a great time, screaming around the parking lot, careening off the sand pile. Around the lot again, moving up the side of the pile. Again.

Then someone challenged Newsbag to see if he could jump the sand pile. So he backed up to the edge of the street, nailed the gas and drove straight up the center of the sand pile. Needless to say, the car didn't fly. The tail fins were no help. Newsbag only made it about three quarters of the way to the top.

His passengers bailed out and tried to lift the car free of the sand. A few others joined in, and before long, there were seven or eight guys on the sand pile, having little success. The sand was too loose, and the car was sunk to the frame.

Then along came Officer Leonard.

"Whose car is this?" he asked.

"Mine, sir," said Newsbag, standing there with a shirt tied around his waist, obviously sans pants.

"Would you mind telling me what's going on here?" said Officer Leonard.

Newsbag said that he and his friends had gone kayaking in Ballardvale and had left the car in the parking lot. And when they returned, there it was, on the sand pile. He didn't know how it happened. Someone must have stolen it.

The officer then inquired about the pants, more specifically, about the lack thereof.

"Well, sir, my friends dumped me out of the kayak and my pants were lost in the water."

"Let me see your license and registration," said Officer Leonard.

Newsbag told the officer that his wallet was in the river with his pants.

"I think you'd better come down to the station."

Safety net available for people who have lost everything

It's 2 a.m. in the morning, you're standing outside of your burning home, when the reality begins to set in that all you have left of your material belongings is on your back. You didn't even have time to put on your shoes as you rushed from your smoke filled home. There you stand, barefoot in the street, disoriented, instantly homeless and without any identification.

In Tyngsboro, on June 13, 2004, 32 people (28 adults and 4 children) found themselves in this condition. This is often how The American Red Cross finds people when they respond to disaster calls at all hours of the night and day. The disaster relief mission of the American Red Cross is to help meet people's immediate needs of food, clothing, shelter, health and mental health services. This Sunday morning, while most people were sleeping, the Red Cross was providing support to the families on scene and has already assisted 11 people who suffered a total loss at the fire. On scene at the disaster and in the days following the disaster, time is taken with each family as they are available to assist them based on their needs.

Some of the most important work the Red Cross does doesn't require financial support, but human support. They assist people in putting together their disaster recovery plan. This plan encourages people to think about their own recovery in terms of their personal resources such as family members, insurance, etc. It also calls upon the community to help fill needs which are supplemental to the mission of the American Red Cross.

The human resource is one of the Red Cross's greatest assets. A team of compassionate trained Red Cross volunteers and employees make up their disaster action teams who respond around the clock and are ever willing to lend a hand, listen or give a hug. Sometimes a toy given to a child who has just lost everything is priceless.

Disaster can strike anyone at anytime. We all may find ourselves in the same situation as people who suffered at the Tyngsboro fire. But it's reassuring to know that although a home may be reduced to ash, the support of agencies like the American Red Cross create a safety net to provide assistance for putting lives back together.

The American Red Cross also provides community disaster education to help families prevent, prepare for and respond to disasters and emergencies. Do you have an emergency evacuation plan from your home? Are you prepared for this hurricane season? If you would like information on how to better prepare your family or friends, please contact the American Red Cross.

In closing, it's important to remember that the American Red Cross in a not for profit, non-governmental agency which exists on the generosity of the American Public. If you would like to make a donation to the Merrimack Valley Chapter of the American Red Cross to ensure that it stands ready 24 hours a day-year round-to respond to disasters and to support its other vital services please send checks to: American Red Cross, 177 Ward Hill Ave., Ward Hill, MA. 01835. Or if you would like to volunteer your time, please call Debbie Duxbury (978) 372-6871.

Do you remember the Old Smokey Line?

Does anyone remember the sounds of the Old Smokey Line as it made its way around Pleasure Island in Wakefield, Massachusetts?

Anyone who did not visit Pleasure Island in the summers between 1959 and 1969 will be able to hear those sounds, and be able to ride the Old Smokey the weekend of July 10-11, 2004 at the WW&F Railway Museum in Alna, Maine during Pleasure Island Remembrance Days.

During that weekend, their Engine #10, which was Engine #5 during its time at Pleasure Island, will be renumbered as Engine #5 & re-lettered as Pleasure Island & Western Railroad.

The letters WW&F stand for Wiscasset, Waterville & Farmington, which was one of 5 narrow gauge railroads that ran in Maine during the turn of the century. When the automobile came into existence, these railroads became financially and physically unable to keep up and were terminated and in some cases abandoned. A gentleman by the name of Ellis D. Atwood bought many of the engines and rolling stock to work on his cranberry plantation in South Carver, Massachusetts. That evolved into Edaville Railroad. Some of the rolling stock from Edaville was loaned to Pleasure Island when it opened in 1959 and it was named among others The Old Smokey Line. Engine #5 was originally used on the Louisiana sugar plantations. It went out of service there in 1958 and was sold to Edaville Railroad. It was given the number 5 by Edaville & put into service at Pleasure Island in Wakefield, Massachusetts.

When the park closed in 1969, the rolling stock was returned to Edaville. Over the years Edaville had its share of financial problems and in the early 90's the park closed and the majority of its contents were auctioned off. But the rolling stock remained.

It was during this time that the Maine Narrow Gauge RR came into existence. Located in Portland, Maine they are preserving the engines & assorted box cars, passenger cars & cabooses that once ran on Maine's 2 foot railroads. In 1993 most of the Edaville trains were moved to Portland where they are not only on display, but also daily steam train rides are given. The WW&F Railroad purchased Engine #5 in 1999. They have since renumbered it to Engine #10 and are also in the process of restoring it to its original look.

The Friends of Pleasure Island plan on participating in this event offering memberships, plus tee-shirts, pennants & bumper stickers and a display of memorabilia relating to Engine #5 during its time at Pleasure Island.

For more information on either the Maine Narrow Gauge or WW&F railroads, visit their web sites at www.mngrr.org and www.wwfry.org. The Friends of Pleasure Island web site is http://www.wakefield.org/pleasureisland/

Dilmore, Phillips awarded WCTV scholarships

WILMINGTON - WCTV is pleased to announce the names of the two students who will receive a WCTV Scholarship Award and have decided to further their study in the field of communications.

The WCTV Scholarship Committee recently selected its 2004 Scholarship recipients: Daniel Dilworth, who has graduated from Wilmington High School, and Nathan Phillips, who graduated from Shawsheen Valley Technical High School.

The WCTV Scholarship funds are raised through the sales of program copies during the year and advanced copies of high school senior activities such as the graduation, promenade, and the awards night ceremony.

*Daniel Dilworth received excellent grades and has worked on such projects as Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD), Medical Careers Club, the school newspaper (and editor), the Wilmington High School Jazz and Marching Bands, and the Food Pantry. He plans to study public communications at Syracuse University.

Nathan Phillips is also a strong student who has worked on the yearbook staff, has earned a silver award in the VICS program and a Citizenship award in English and works in his church youth group. He plans to study digital media at Full Sail Real World Education in Florida.

"Our congratulations to both exceptional students," says WCTV Executive Director Donna Gacek. "We at WCTV are very proud of each student and we wish them the best of luck in all of their future endeavors."

WCTV is a non-profit, 501c3 organization. Donations to our organization are tax-deductible. Call WCTV for information on how you can make a donation.

This is Hurricane Preparedness Week

FRAMINGHAM - To help increase public awareness of the effects hurricanes can have on the Commonwealth, Governor Mitt Romney has declared the week of June 20 through June 26, 2004 "Massachusetts Hurricane Preparedness Week."

As part of Hurricane Preparedness Week, the Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency held two events to ensure the continued preparedness and safety of the Commonwealth.

On Wednesday, June 23, from 9:00 am until noon, MEMA hosted its Annual Massachusetts Emergency Management Team (MEMT) Hurricane Workshop. The MEMT, which is composed of representatives of scores of State, Federal, Local, public, private and volunteer agencies and organizations, will listen to presentations from the National Weather Service, Coastal Zone Management, ISO-New England and MEMA regarding the upcoming hurricane season. Following the presentations MEMA held the Annual Hurricane Table-Top Exercise, testing all of the pertinent systems of MEMA and participating MEMT Agencies/Organizations dealing with the aftermath of a storm. These events were conducted at the State Emergency Operations Center (SEOC), at MEMA Headquarters in Framingham, MA.

Also on display was an example of a Hurricane Preparedness Supply Kit.

The last severe Hurricane to hit Massachusetts was Hurricane Bob in August 1991. Bob was a Category 2 Hurricane (winds 91-110 mph) which caused almost $1 billion in damage. Hurricane Edouard (1996) and Hurricane Bonnie (1998) threatened Massachusetts, but veered out to sea as they traveled up the coast. In 1999, Hurricane Floyd fortunately weakened to a tropical storm prior to its arrival in the Bay State.

The Atlantic Hurricane season began June 1, and continues until November 30th, although, traditionally, the key months for New England are from August to Mid-October.

The Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) is the state agency responsible for coordinating federal, state, local, voluntary and private resources during emergencies and disasters in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. MEMA provides leadership to: develop plans for effective response to all hazards, disasters or threats; train emergency personnel to protect the public, provide information to the citizenry, and assist individuals, families, businesses and communities to mitigate against, prepare for, and respond to and recover from emergencies, both natural and man made. For additional information about MEMA and Hurricanes, go to www.mass.gov/mema.

SAVING ON YOUR HOMEOWNERS INSURANCE

If you are faced with increases in your homeowners insurance premiums, bear in mind that rising construction costs and expensive catastrophes have led to higher costs. Record low interest rates also led many homeowners to make upgrades and additions to their existing homes, which creates more house to insure. One way homeowners may reduce costs is to consider modernizing their heating, plumbing, and electrical systems to reduce the potential for fire and water damage. After these upgrades are made, inform the insurance company. Also request information on steps that you might take to make your home more resistant to wind damage and other natural disasters. You may be able to save on your premiums by following their advise.

Your interests are our highest priority. When you insure with us, you will be treated with the courtesy and respect you deserve as a valued client. We have an individual plan to meet your specific needs. The advice we give is derived from your individual or family needs and situations. For more information or to schedule an appointment, we invite you to call today at 978-657-7200. You'll Like the Way We do Business.™

NOTE: You may be able to get discounts on your homeowners insurance by adding deadbolt locks to your exterior doors.

Get free temporary tattoos

Henna Demonstration

Teens can get free temporary tattoos at the Henna Demonstration on Tuesday, June 29th from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Nimmi Sehgal will be painting Henna style tattoos just in time for the 4th of July Carnival! Nimmi has appeared at the Boston Public Library several times. All teens who attend will be entered into a drawing for a free book about Henna. Drop-in. Sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

75 Teens Enjoy End of School Party

According to Nathalie Demers, the Teen Services Librarian, the library's 2nd annual End of School Year Party for Teens was a huge success! Seventy-five teens showed up to listen to a live rock band, eat ice cream, and hang out in the Teen Zone. Kudos to the Friends of the Library for sponsoring such a fun and popular event. Nathalie encourages teens to stop by the library and find out ways to keep your summer from getting boring. You can enter the Teen Video Contest or the Drawing Contest. Of course, there are great books and magazines available to read including the cool "graphic novels."

Book Discussions

The library has a variety of book discussion groups for all ages. The groups continue to meet throughout the summer.

Nine and Older Group

The fantasy Varjak Paw by S.F. Said will be discussed by kids ages nine and older on Wednesday, June 30th at 12 pm. Drop-in with your lunch. Extra copies of the book will be available at the library. Door prize provided by the Friends.

Teen Book Discussion

The Teen Book Discussion group will meet on Friday, June 25 at 12:00 pm. The group will talk about two books this month: The Mirror of Merlin and The Wings of Merlin by T.A. Barron (Books 4 & 5 of The Lost Years of Merlin series. Bring your lunch. Door prize provided by the Friends of the Library.

PageTurners

PageTurners, the library's morning book discussion group, gave The Secret Life of Bees, by Sue Monk Kidd, six thumbs up. PageTurners will read The Nanny Diaries by Emma McLaughlin. The group will meet on Tuesday July 20th at 11 a.m. to discuss this book. Are you free during the day in the summer? Join in on this next discussion. New members welcome!

School Required Summer Reading

The library has multiple copies of many of the titles on the Wilmington Public Schools required summer reading list. If the book you want to read is checked out, place it on reserve now so that you get a copy before the end of the summer. Follow the easy to use directions on the library's online catalog at www.wilmlibrary.org. or ask a librarian for assistance.

A Father's Day Gift

Jim Lemay, the President of the Friends of the Library, received a special gift for his first Father's Day from Holly, his six-month-old daughter. Holly's mom, Joy Lemay, gave a donation to the library requesting that a book be purchased in honor of Jim's first Father's Day. If you would like to have the library purchase a book in honor of a friend or relative celebrating a special occasion (a birthday or an anniversary), you can pick up a form at the circulation desk. You can indicate the subject area of interest for the book to be purchased. Book plates with the person's name are placed in the book that is selected by the library.

New Events Calendar on Website

Check out the user friendly events calendar on the library's web site. Go to www.wilmlibrary.org and click on "Calendar of Events" on the home page.

Summer Schedule

The library is closed on Saturdays during the summer beginning June 26th and will be open again on Saturdays beginning September 11th. During the summer, the library is open Monday through Thursday 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Tewksbury Public Library has fun for teens this summer

Are you a teen looking for something interesting to do over vacation?

Need to come to the library anyway for your school reading books? Fortunately, Tewksbury Public Library also has fun events for teens entering grades 7 through 12.

Reading Challenge

The Reading Challenge is a great opportunity to experience something new. Try a book that qualifies for any of the Reading Challenge categories, like fantasy, romance, nonfiction, sports, short stories, and more. Then fill out an entry form for a chance to get cool prizes. Lucky winners will be picked at random all summer long.

Mask-Making

Learn about the history of masks from Mexico, Africa and Asia and be inspired to create your own. Artists and teacher Ann McCrea will provide clay and instruction, so all you need to do is bring your imagination. Wednesday, August 4 from 3-4:30 p.m. To sign up, stop by or call (978) 640-4490, ext. 207.

Writing Workshops

Writing is a way to explore the world of the imagination, the world inside and outside of ourselves. Come to Peggy Rambach's 3-day workshop series, July 20-22 from 1-3 p.m. To sign up, stop by or call (978) 640-4490, extension 207. This project is supported, in part, by a grant from the Tewksbury Cultural Council, a local agency supported by the Massachusetts Cultural council.

Obituary

Robert N. McVicker

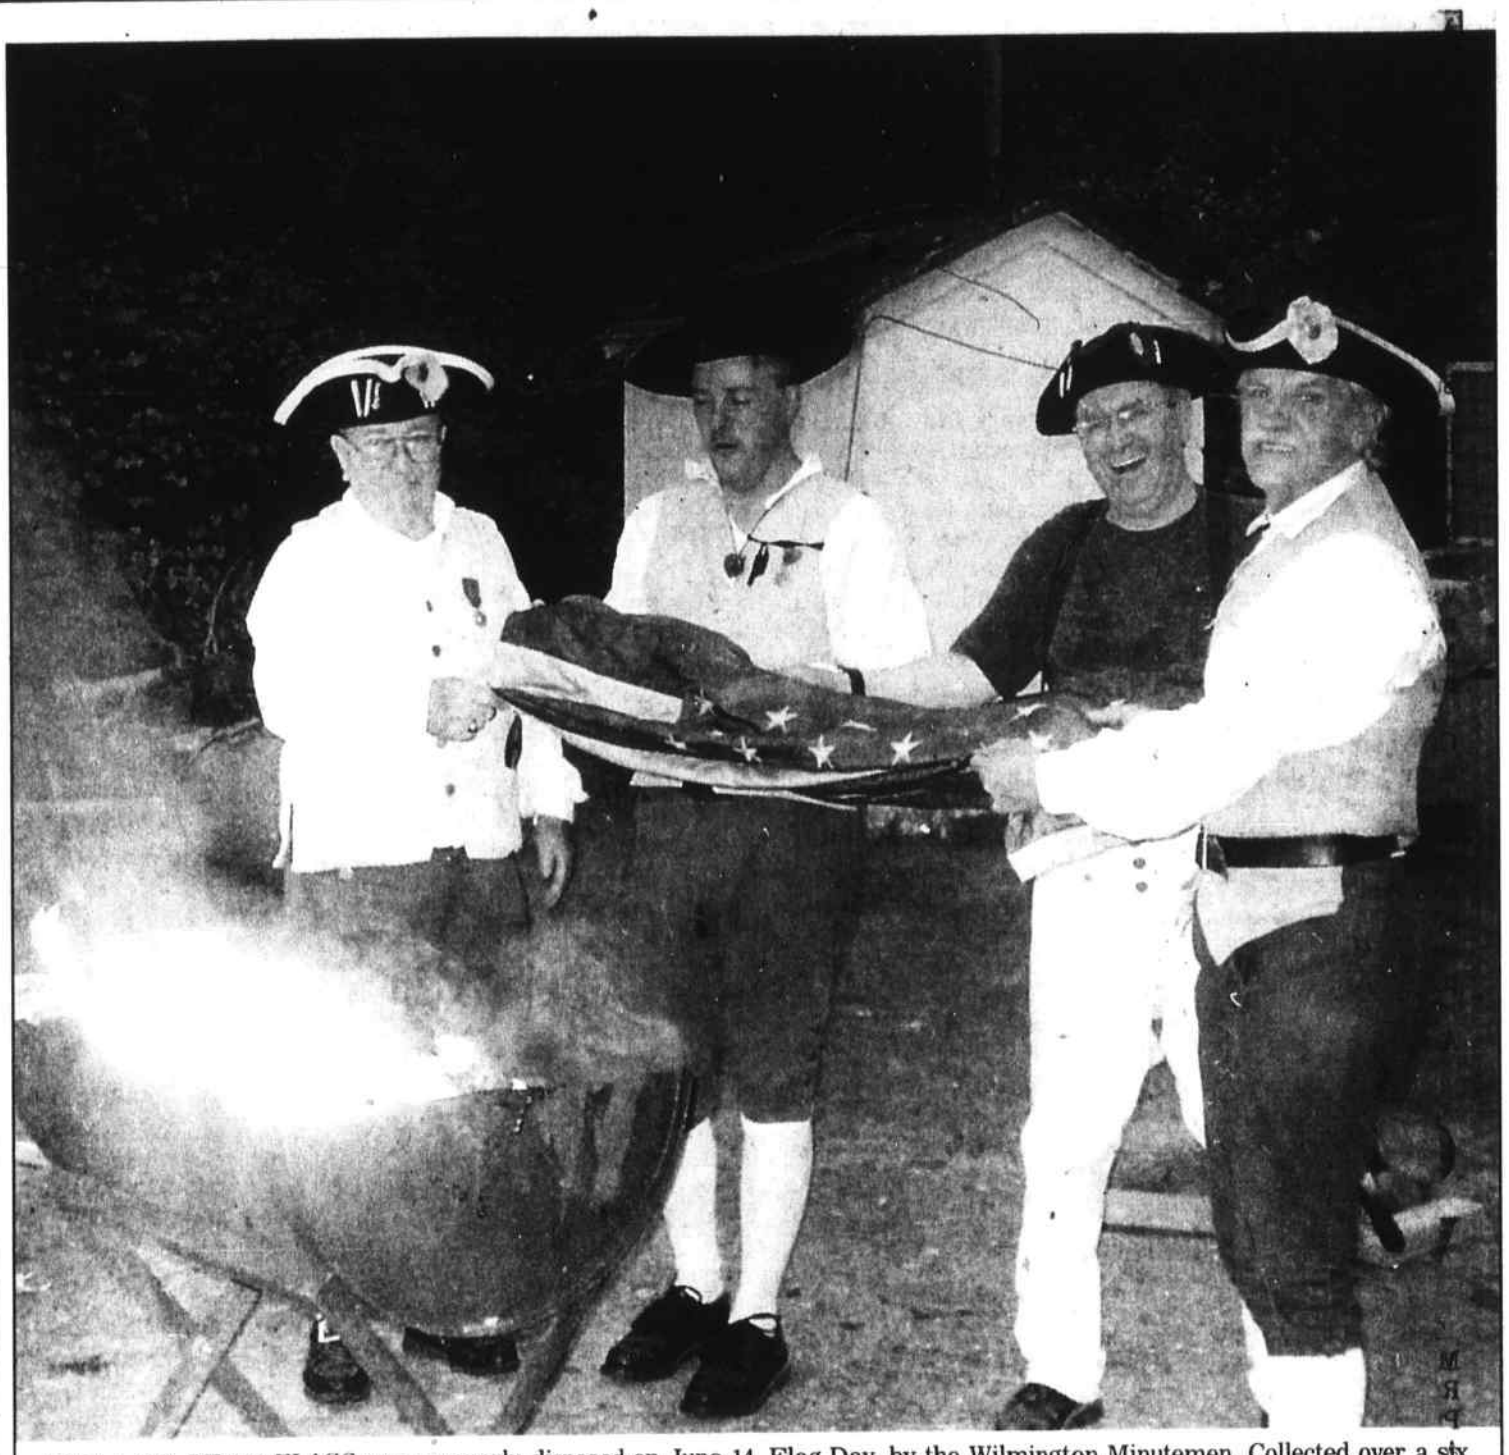

Draftsman for Textron Defense Systems

Robert N. McVicker, age 72 years, of Wilmington, died on June 16, 2004 at Saints Memorial Medical Center in Lowell.

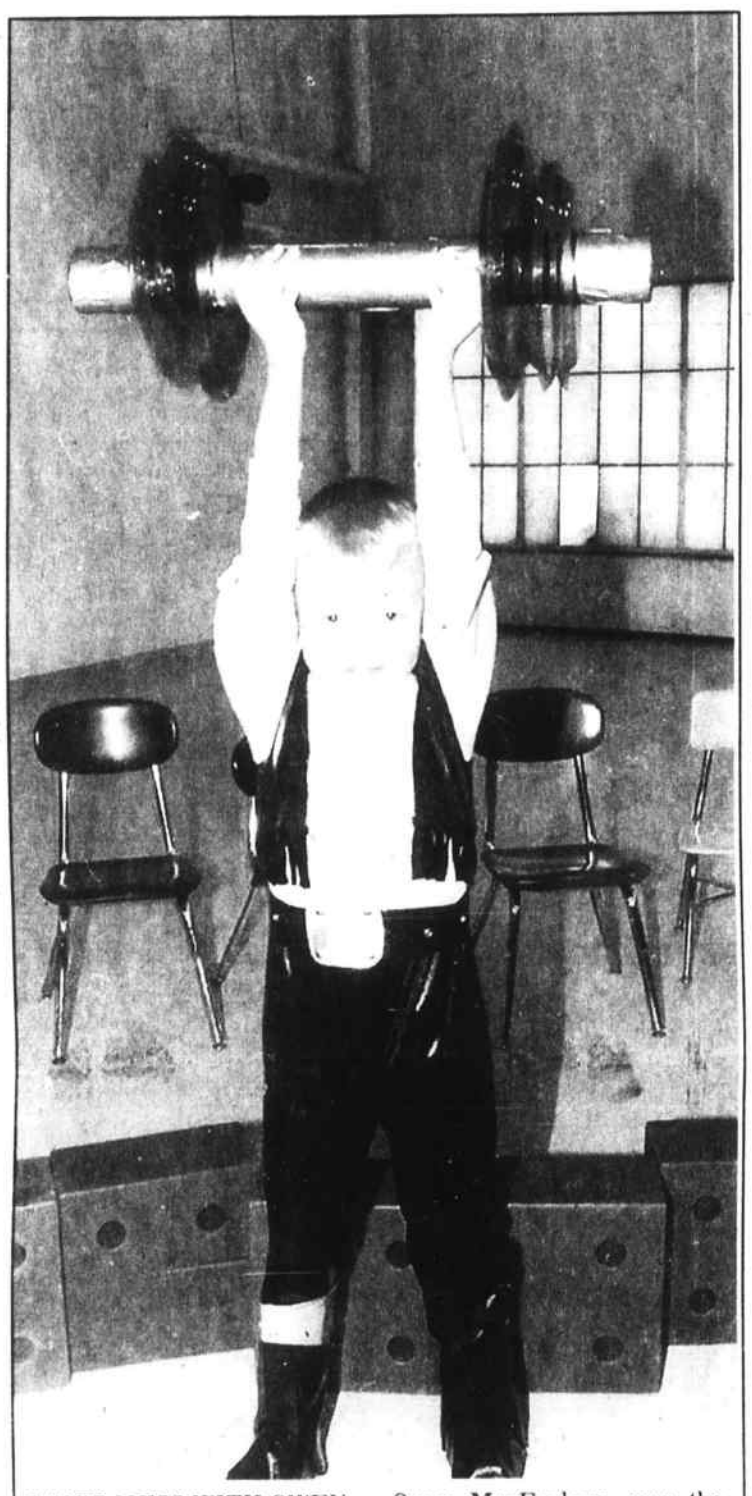

Mr. McVicker was born on Tuesday, November 24, 1931, in Melrose, the son of the late Joseph McVicker and the late Marie (Connelly) McVicker. He was a decorated United States Army War Veteran during the Korean Conflict where he served as a Corporal. Prior to retirement, he was employed as a draftsman by Textron Defense Systems in Wilmington formerly known as Avco.

Mr. McVicker is survived by his loving wife Joan T. (Dingivan) McVicker; his children Ellie McVicker of Rochester, NH, Karen Foster and her husband Barry of Westford, Michael McVicker and his wife Susan of Tyngsboro and Terri Phillips and her husband Don of Manchester, NH; his brother Leo McVicker and his wife Bidou of Rockport and FL, formerly of Wilmington; 10 grandchildren and 4 great-grandchildren. Mr. McVicker was also the father of the late Linda McVicker of Wilmington and the late Marie McVicker of Wilmington.

His funeral was held from the W.S. Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home, 374 Main Street (Rt 38), Wilmington, on Saturday morning, June 19, 2004 at 8:45 followed by a Funeral Mass at St. Thomas Church at 10:00 a.m. Interment took place in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington. Memorial donations in his name may be made to Shriner's Burns Institute, 51 Blossom Street, Boston, MA. 02114.

THE LAST OF 361 FLAGS were properly disposed on June 14, Flag Day, by the Wilmington Minutemen. Collected over a six week period at the Town Hall, Post Office and the Town Crier office, the flags ranged in size from 2" x 3" to 8' x 12'. The U.S. Flag code calls for American Flags to be respectfully burned when they are worn beyond use and no longer fit to represent the country. Holding the last of the flags are, left to right, Pvt. Text of the speech given by Matthew Joyce, Wilmington High School's Teacher of the Year

Here at the Town Crier, we have had a few requests to publish the speech given by Teacher of the Year Matthew Joyce during the graduation ceremony of the Class of 2004 at Wilmington High School on Sunday, June 6. Mr. Joyce's speech was indeed a memorable one, so it is with pleasure that we have published it below.

Graduation Speech 2004
by Matthew K. Joyce

Members of the School Committee...

Superintendent McAlduff and Members of the Central Office...

Members of the High School Administration...

Fellow Faculty Members...

Parents and Friends...

And finally...

Members of the Graduating Class of 2004...

Thank you once again for electing me Teacher of the Year.

And thank you for providing me with the opportunity to address my "last best" class, one last time...

I have spoken many other times at Graduation ceremonies, but this was the toughest speech for me to write.

And in those other speeches, I often made reference to the paradoxical nature of past graduations where students got to go . . .

But I got to stay.

Well, this year, we will both go out the door together.

And perhaps that is why this speech is so special and yet so difficult.

I have a yearning to get it all said, to tie up loose ends, to get my act together, before you and I walk out the door together.

And I would be remiss if I didn't offer a wealth of thanks to the community and the people who have provided me with the opportunity to work at an occupation I have loved for thirty seven years.

So thanks to all you parents for lending me your sons and daughters to educate...

Thanks to all the administrators and faculty, especially Mr. Woods, and Frannie Boudreau and Bob Cripps who are about to leave as well.

Thanks for your help and support and patience in putting up with my antics all these years.

Thirty seven years . . . That's a long time.

But as I typed those words yesterday, I suddenly realized that I was not writing a speech for you, the members of the graduating class. I was writing it for me . . . and that it was so difficult to do so because I had discovered...

That I was nervous and concerned about where I was headed...

That I was looking to the future with trepidation...

That I was scared to leave Wilmington High...

And that the comfortable nest I had made for myself at the little school on Church Street for 37 years had turned me into a marshmallow.

And I knew all of that because I saw no fear in your eyes about leaving at all. None...

As a matter of fact, you people signed out of here faster than any class I've ever seen.

And I began to take a look at the attributes you possessed as a class that I felt were missing in me these days. There were many I considered...

Your youthful exuberance... Hmmm... not much I can do with that...God... it takes me fifteen minutes to pull on my pants in the morning...

I continued to think for some time, and then I settled in on two attributes that I knew you possessed . . . and that I was in dire need of possessing myself.

Audacity and Persistence...

Audacity and Persistence... Yeah....with the way I'd been feeling lately, I could use those two...

I mean, let's face it, any class that contains the likes of Buckaroo Collings has got to be audacious.

On the other hand, any high school class that has put up with him for four years is certainly persistent as well...

Now don't misunderstand me...

I haven't become a driveling, fearful idiot...

I'm ready to head out the door with you...almost...

I think I'm ready to retire...

Over the last several years, there have been some obvious signs that it is essential that I do so.

My glasses for one thing... Now, I don't need them except to see, but when the search for where I've put them starts to exceed an hour's time, then it's time to retire...

Packaging is another thing that's a tip off...

I'd like to spend as much time drinking my coffee in the morning as it takes me to undo the cap and peel off the inner seal on the creamers that I'm using. I swear the seal is designed by spiteful lunatics who despise their job on the assembly line....

Then there's the laundry...

It's not so much the washing and drying of it...

It's the trip down to the cellar to pick it up.

Last week, I went down three times to get it and found two other things to do down there. I ended up having to write a note on my hand the way you students do...Yeah, it's time to retire...

And finally, after eight years of living with dogs, I've decided to try to live the way they live....They have a five step plan....

They eat, sleep, play, pee and poop...Sounds pretty good to me these days....

And I'll have much to do...

I'll write and think and read...

I'll play with my dogs and learn from them...

I'll refinish an old piano that I barn and teach myself to play it...and if I'm persistent enough...

Maybe I'll ask Buck if I can sit in for a jam session with him and the guys...

That would certainly be audacious.

And so you see, I have learned much from you, my "last best" class. You and this speech have been my teacher of the year.

I will take your audacity and persistence and come to realize once again...

That to approach the future in the grips of fear is no way to live...

That the only thing to fear is fear itself...

And that all the advice that I can give you or myself or anyone else who is about to take a new and different journey can be reduced to ten small, simple two letter words...

"If it is to be, it is up to me."

It is that simple.

No fears... no safety nets... no copouts...

Take that motto into the future with you...

Learn it and live it...

Because if you do...you can not fail...

No.....I take that back...it's WE can not fail...

OK...we're ready now...you and I ...We're both ready now...

No fears...no safety nets...no copouts....

Whaddya say . . . let's head out the door and into the future together...

Thank you...God bless you and good-bye to Wilmington High School... and good-bye to you, my "last best" class...

Representative Murphy announces re-election bid

The following is a verbatim statement made by Representative Charles Murphy, as it was submitted to the Town Crier.

By REPRESENTATIVE CHARLES MURPHY

Representing the towns of Bedford, Burlington and Wilmington on Beacon Hill is a responsibility that I take seriously and one that I am honored to have. It is with a sense of excitement and pride that I announce my intention to seek reelection as State Representative for the 21st Middlesex District.

From the start I have always believed my role as being primarily twofold: provide assistance to constituents who are in need of help on various matters and to weigh in on public policy issues that affect our district as well as the Commonwealth as a whole. I take each responsibility extremely seriously and enjoy each equally.

In terms of legislation, two years ago as I began my reelection campaign I cited two matters that were my priorities: strengthen our drunken driving laws and implement a permanent investment tax credit. I submitted legislation on both issues and each has become law within the last several months.

I continue to provide constituent services to anyone who calls the office for assistance. Such assistance ranges from simple questions about state services to more in-depth requests concerning other matters. I am proud of the service I provide and take pride in responding to all calls and emails regardless of a person's position on an issue.

I look forward to submitting legislation to reform the way our state budget is debated. The State of Washington recently implemented a new process that analyzed the results that each state agency sought to achieve and budgeted accordingly. Massachusetts should follow suit. I will continue my efforts to address ever-increasing health care costs. In recent years health care costs have increased in excess of 10% annually; such a trend is not sustainable. It is the legislature's duty to address the issue is substantive way in the near term and I am committed to being part of the solution. I will also continue to support legislation aimed at improving economic development in the Commonwealth. A positive business climate always results in a healthier economy that will, in turn, return additional revenue to the state.

During the past several years I have been a vocal critic of the House leadership and I will continue to voice my opinion in terms of how the legislative process can improve. There are a growing number of legislators who are willing to stand up and debate issues that in the past would have passed not commented upon. It appears that change is taking place in a positive way, however, I look forward to the day when new leadership takes over and a new mindset is established.

I have been fortunate to have served in extremely good times when tax receipts where flowing into the state and during more lean times, such as now, when deficits are the reality and difficult cuts are necessary. When times were good I voted in favor of over 20 tax cuts, recently, however, drastic cuts to state agencies, departments and programs have been the norm. It appears the economy is on the mend and I look forward to a state budget that will not include cuts to important programs and departments.

Again, it is my privilege to serve the towns of Bedford, Burlington and Wilmington on Beacon Hill and I am proud of my accomplishments over the past several years. I ask for your vote this fall to allow me the opportunity to continue my service to you.

All are invited to a campaign kick-off event that is scheduled for Thursday, June 24th at 6:00pm at the American Legion Hall in Burlington.

Dunlevy wins business education award

TEWKSBURY - The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Ryan Dunlevy of Tewksbury has been named a United States National Award Winner in Business Education.

The Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American High School students. Ryan, who attends Tewksbury Memorial High School, was nominated for this national award by James Sullivan, Jr., a business teacher at the high school. Ryan will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Year Book, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

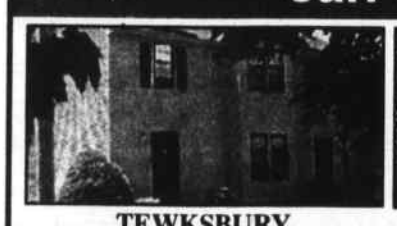

Ryan is the son of Stephen and Doreen Dunlevy from Tewksbury. He is the grandson of Joan and William Dunlevy of Tewksbury and Yvonne and Alfred Sylvia of Tewksbury.

The Stetson Family would like to thank the Wilmington Fire and Rescue Department for their assistance.
Well done gentlemen.

OFF TO THE OTHER SIDE OF THE POND. Jim Murray, left, one of the four members of the Jolly Rogues, is off to the United Kingdom on June 30, where he and his musical mates will perform in Tewkesbury, England. Murray is seen here on Sunday, June 20, in Sunderland, Vermont, with two gents, dressed as British officers, who attended Ethan Allen Day there as well. The man in the middle is holding "The Road to Boston," the Jolly Rogues CD that he confiscated from Murray.

BETTY AND ARNIE APRILE

DeMarco officially becomes a doctor

WORCESTER - Laura DeMarco of Wilmington received a Doctor of Medicine degree from the University of Massachusetts Medical School on June 6, 2004, at ceremonies held in Mechanics Hall in Worcester. She is the daughter of John and Rosemary DeMarco of Wilmington.

Laura earned her undergraduate degree from Colby College, Waterville, ME in 1998.

Following her graduation, she will serve her residency in Emergency Medicine at the UMass Medical Center in Worcester.

Gay awarded scholarship

The Stephen Phillips Memorial Scholarship Fund recently awarded a $4,000 renewable award to David Gay, a graduate of Tewksbury Memorial High School, who will be attending Brandeis University in the fall.

David was one of 182 new students who received an award this year and was recognized for academic achievement, as well as notable community, school and work activities.

The Phillips Scholarship annually awards approximately 630 new and renewable awards totaling close to $3,000,000 and was established in 1991 by Bessie Wright Phillips of Salem, Massachusetts, in memory of her husband. History of the fund, the criteria, procedures and deadlines may be found at www.phillips-scholarship.org.

Apriles surprised on their 50th wedding anniversary

WILMINGTON - Arnie and Betty Aprile were welcomed and surprised at the Montvale Plaza in Stoneham on May 23, 2004, where they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

"Their real fiftieth is on June 26, but, wanting it to be a big surprise, we decided to do it early," said Patsy, the couple's daughter-in-law.

There were 117 relatives and friends who eagerly awaited the Apriles' arrival at the plaza.

"They are such a wonderful couple," one guest said. "How could you not be happy for them?"

Betty and Arnie have lived in Wilmington for more than 40 years. They have three sons Thomas (deceased), Ronald and Robert. They also have 5 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

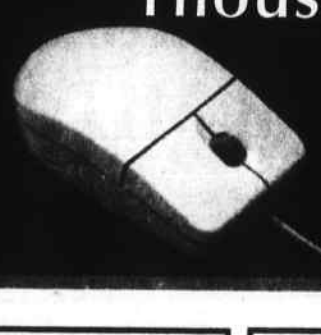

They were toasted by their Best Man, Smitty Gallinaro who they haven't seen in over 20 years.

Leanne Rose McConologue weds John Patrick Ebert

Leanne McConologue, daughter of Thomas and Rosalie McConologue, wed John Ebert, son of George and the late Dorothy Ebert.

The marriage took place on April 17, 2004 at St. Francis Church in Dracut. The ceremony was officiated by Fr. Robert Blaney.

The bride approached the alter on the arm of her father in an off white satin gown embroidered with pink roses and organza train. A wreath of pearls and crystals held her chapel length veil. She carried a bouquet or orchids and pink roses. Laura Connors, best friend of the bride, served as matron of honor, dressed in a floor length gown of blush, as were the bridesmaids Laurene McConologue, sister of the bride, Thelma McConologue, Rochelle McConologue, Brenda McConologue all sisters-in-law of the bride and Kim Ebert, sister-in-law of the groom. Kelly McConologue, niece of the bride was dressed in a miniature matching gown to her aunt, as flower girl. The groom was attired in a morning suit.

Todd Ebert served his brother as best man. Usher were Thomas Allen, and Daniel McConologue brothers of the bride Kevin Ebert brother of the groom, Lawman Johnson, friend of the bride and Mike Dunn friend of the groom.

Mark McConologue nephew of the bride was ring bearer.

A reception was held at Promises to Keep in New Hampshire. Following a honeymoon in Hawaii, the couple will reside in Dracut.

Thank you to all who attended and shared a wonderful day.

Birth

DRISCOLL: Lisa and Dennis Driscoll of Tewksbury are pleased to announce the birth of their daughter Jessica Marie Driscoll, born on June 9, 2004 at Winchester Hospital.

Grandparents are Betty and John Saganich of Acton and the late Richard and Rita Driscoll of Roslindale.

Jessica has a big brother Ryan, age 2; and 2 older sisters, Amanda 14, and Andrea 11.

Summer reading lists available

TEWKSBURY - Summer reading lists for local students were distributed by the Tewksbury Public Schools on June 16, the final day of the 2003-2004 academic year. There is a specific list of recommended books for each grade level. The Tewksbury Public Library works in close cooperation with the school system's reading specialists to stock the shelves of the public library with the book titles from each list.

"Summer reading is a very important activity," says Superintendent of Schools Dr. Christine McGrath. "Students who read each day are able to maintain their reading and language arts skills. Summer reading also helps students to expand their knowledge of the world and to be exposed to some great children's and young adult literature."

According to Dr. McGrath, students who read on a regular basis have an advantage on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) and the Massachusetts Comprehensive Assessment System (MCAS).

"Please encourage your children to read at the beach, in the car, at bedtime or any time that is convenient," McGrath requests. "Each of our schools will provide some form of recognition in the fall for those students who participated in the Summer Reading Program."

Additional copies of the Summer Reading List may be obtained by calling the Office of the Superintendent at (978) 640-7800.

JOHN BUSHWAY, seated at right, of Tewksbury, was presented the Silver Beaver Award by the Yankee Clipper Council during a special ceremony at The Ferncroft in Danvers on June 10. The award is given to those who show distinguished service within a local council of the Boy Scouts of America. Bushway was one of seven to receive the award, a distinction made more impressive when considering that there are 5,000 scout leaders in the council. In the photo above, Bushway is joined by his wife, Diane, and his children, Katie and Sean.

Boys choir to perform in Wilmington

WILMINGTON - The North Carolina Boys Choir will be presenting a free concert on Thursday, June 24, 2004 at 7:00 pm at the Wilmington United Methodist Church located at 89 Church Street, Wilmington, Massachusetts.

The North Carolina Boys Choir is one of the relatively few existing boy choirs in this country, which perpetuates a centuries old art form. The 41 members of this choir sing in several languages and range in age from nine to fourteen. Its present Musical Director, William Graham, founded the choir in 1972 as the Durham Boys Choir. Concert touring is an important part of the choir's function and during the month of June, the choir will embark on a two-week tour of the United States and Canada.

Information about the boy choir organization can be obtained by visiting their web site at www.ncboyschoir.org. This organization is funded solely through charitable contributions. Donations to help the Boys Choir continue with their mission, will gladly be accepted at the concert.

TEWKSBURY - Sergeant Robert Westaway, of the Tewksbury Police Department, and his wife, Kathleen, are recovering from injuries sustained during a motorcycle accident on Saturday night.

The couple was traveling south on Main Street on June 19 when they were struck by a motorist at the intersection of North Street at approximately 8:53 p.m. A 17-year-old female from Tewksbury was driving the vehicle that struck the Westaways' Harley Davidson motorcycle.

At press time, Deputy Chief Timothy Sheehan chose not to speculate on whether a citation will be issued to the youth as a result of the incident, which is currently under investigation by the police department and the State Police's Collision Analysis Reconstruction Section.

SGT. ROBERT WESTAWAY

The Westaways were rushed from the scene to the Lahey Clinic in Burlington to be treated for "severe leg injuries." Both husband and wife underwent surgery that evening.

Mrs. Westaway, who at press time has had a total of three surgeries, has another one scheduled for this Friday.

According to Sergeant Westaway, the prognosis is very good for both he and Kathy.

"There is no doubt, it is just a matter of time," Westaway said, from his hospital room at the Lahey Clinic.

He did not break any bones, but he lost a good deal of skin from his left leg and may require a skin graft. According to Westaway, his wife took the brunt of the impact and her femur was shattered.

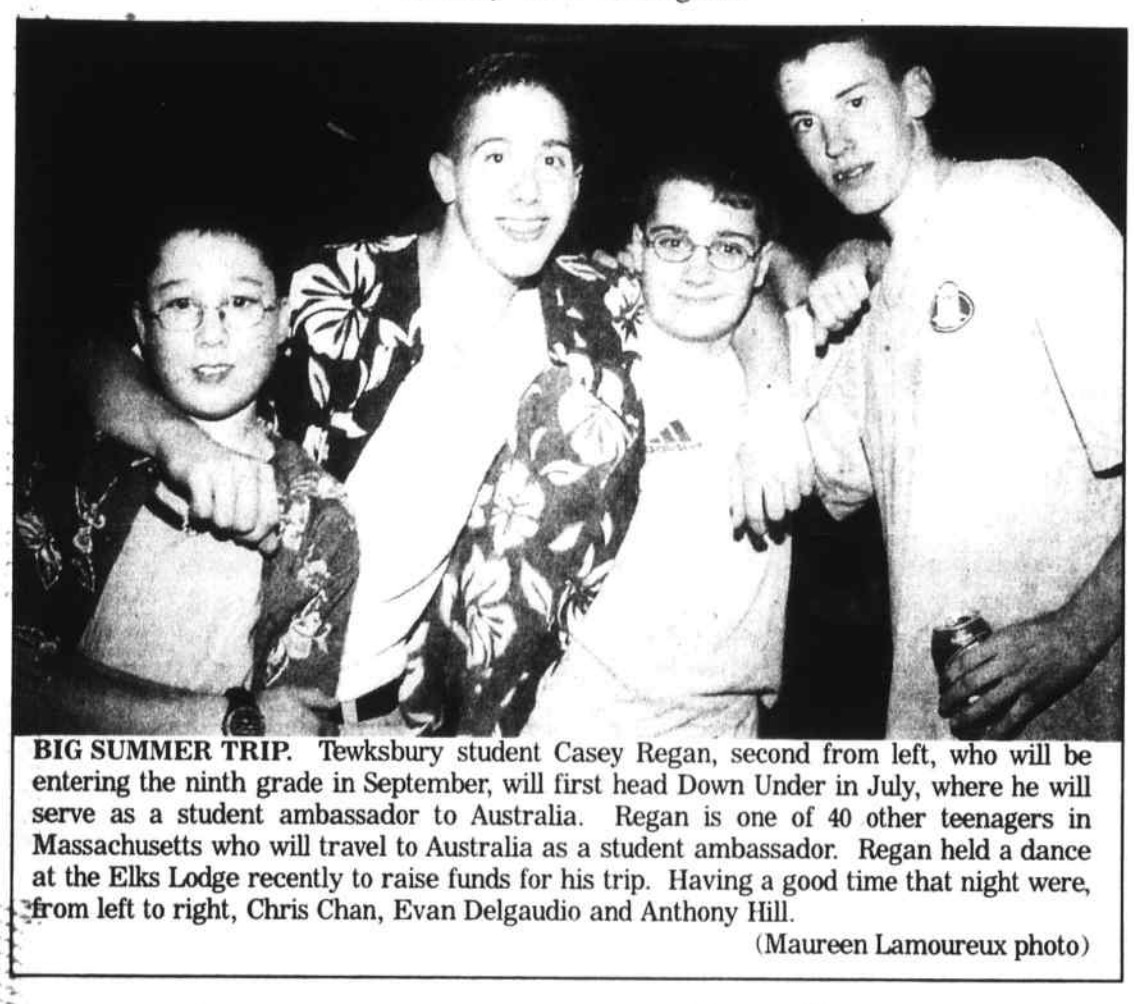

"If it was just me, okay, but it was tough to see her like that," Westaway said. "Go ahead and break all of the bones in my body, but just don't hurt her."

Westaway, a 23-year veteran of the Tewksbury Police Department, was featured in last week's Town Crier for saving the life of a 43-year old Sudden Cardiac Arrest victim.

A couple of weekends ago, Westaway was the first to respond to a call to the police station for medical assistance at Livingston Street Park. Once at the scene, Westaway found the victim without a pulse and not breathing. Westaway administered a shock with defibrillators and followed up with CPR until a strong pulse returned.

Dr. Mark Gendreau, of the Lahey Clinic, made a call to Westaway that day, crediting him with saving the man's life.

"He saved this man's life, and I wanted to call him and congratulate him for it," Gendreau said. "For each minute without a defibrillator, the victim's chance of survival decreases by 15 to 20 percent."

BIG SUMMER TRIP. Tewksbury student Casey Regan, second from left, who will be entering the ninth grade in September, will first head Down Under in July, where he will serve as a student ambassador to Australia. Regan is one of 40 other teenagers in Massachusetts who will travel to Australia as a student ambassador. Regan held a dance at the Elks Lodge recently to raise funds for his trip. Having a good time that night were, from left to right, Chris Chan, Evan Delgaudio and Anthony Hill.

recognize the description of a suspect as someone who is known to them.

"We get the word out immediately through law enforcement circles," Spencer said. "These individuals often repeat their behavior."

The police department is also investigating an occurrence from this past weekend, in which two men driving a blue Toyota asked two Wilmington youths if they wanted to see a bicycle they had in the trunk of their car. The two youths fled the scene without further incident.

Anyone with information regarding either of these occurrences is urged to contact the Wilmington Police Department at 978-658-5071.

Nominations sought for next Wilmington Reads book

tion papers to teenagers before high school finished for the year earlier this month. She's hoping many local high schoolers will come forward with their top picks.

Once the nomination process ends on July 9, the Wilmington Reads Committee will pare down the list of choices to three titles by Monday, July 19. Residents will have between July 19 and August 14 to vote for which book of the final three that they want to read.

Residents will read the book in January and February of 2005. Events will be held all throughout March, so that readers can plumb the themes of the novel from a number of fun and educational perspectives.

Although readers will only tackle the book several months from now, Stewart wants to get the nominating and voting underway because Wilmington Reads is financed through a federal grant from the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners that will expire on October 1. The time frame will also allow Stewart and the Wilmington Reads Committee to plan for the forums in March.

Fans of "Empire Falls," though, still have much to look forward to. The film adaptation of "Falls," which was recently shot in Skowhegan, Maine, and stars Paul Newman, will premiere on HBO in December. Once the movie airs, the library will schedule a forum, during which residents will discuss the similarities and differences between "Empire Falls" on the page and on the screen.

Many surprises could await those who get involved with Wilmington Reads, Stewart says. Just ask residents Paul and Pat Sullivan, who last March won a stay at a Bread and Breakfast in Skowhegan as a result of the many book-related prizes awarded to participants.

During their stay in Maine, the Sullivans were warmly welcomed by Skowhegan residents Earl and Linda Boyd, who visited Wilmington this past spring and shared stories about the production of "Falls" in their community. The Boyds gave the Sullivans a grand tour of Skowhegan, introducing them to the town manager, bringing them to the sites where the movie was shot, and giving them complimentary tickets to a local play in which their daughter acted. The Skowhegan Chamber of Commerce was even on hand to make the Wilmington couple feel at home.

The Sullivans were also presented with a gift bag that contained a jar of homemade maple sugar and clothes emblazoned with the "Empire Falls" logo. Speaking of that logo, the Boyds took the Sullivans to the local company where it was placed on all of the movie's memorabilia.

"We were very welcomed by everybody," says Pat Sullivan, who was astonished by the level of hospitality afforded them. "We felt like celebrities."

One can only imagine where the next chosen book for Wilmington Reads will lead those who read it.

"The fireworks are going to be even more spectacular"

through Sunday, July 4, the big day itself. Please find inside this edition of the Town Crier a supplement, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, that features a complete schedule of the events, guidelines and photos that capture the fun that was had by all last year. It's your complete guide to the 4th of July in Wilmington.

"We hope that everyone will attend the first fireworks display on July 2, return the next day for Family Day, and then stay for the big fireworks that evening," Searfoss says.

The plans for this year's festivities have been, as always, just about a year in the making. The 4th of July Committee takes off one month after every Independence Day and then gets back to work in August.

"It feels odd when it's all over, to tell you the truth," Searfoss says. "We go home after the 4th of July week is done, and we feel a little strange. After a week of being so busy, we all feel like we should be doing something."

James Stewart is the president of the 4th of July Committee, Joan Searfoss is its vice president, and David Hall is its treasurer. Dianna DeGregorio serves as the committee's secretary.

This year, the tee-shirt commemorating the town's celebration of the 4th of July will feature a logo created by Amanda Miles. Miles, who will be a junior at Wilmington High School come August, saw her design chosen from among 200 fellow classmates who entered a contest initiated by the school's art department earlier this year.

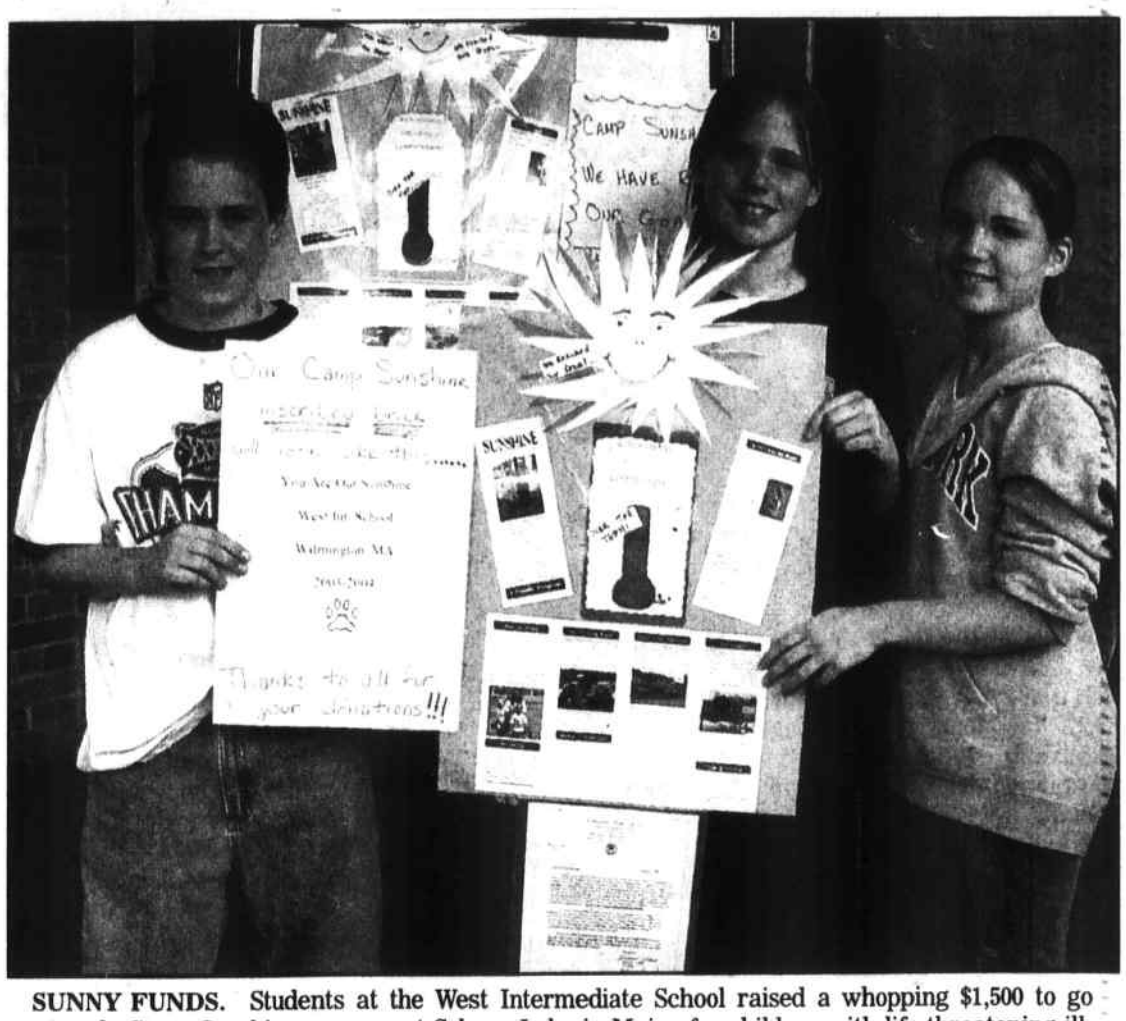

"I was excited when I found out," says Miles, who has been taking art classes for about five years now. "I've never created a tee shirt before."

Searfoss says that he and his fellow committee members liked the way Miles's logo tied the town of Wilmington into a big W.

"Amanda's logo had a simplicity," he says. "We'll be putting her name on the tee shirt with the logo."

Members of the 4th of July Committee are looking forward to seeing everyone next week.

"I wish everyone a happy and safe Fourth of July," Searfoss says.

Alzheimer's Disease. He was 93.

Caira has two framed pictures from his encounters with President Reagan. One shot shows the two men shaking hands, making eye contact. The other photograph shows Caira and Reagan locked in another handshake but facing the camera. Ever the actor, Reagan prepared Caira for the latter moment.

"We were face to face, and he was shaking my hand, and he placed his left hand on my elbow and encouraged me to look with him into the camera," Caira says. "It was an unforgettable moment for me. To have met him twice makes it doubly unforgettable."

Caira also received from Reagan two gifts that to this day he keeps with him in their original cases. One gift, a gold tie pin with the presidential seal, bears the president's engraved autograph. The second one, which also has Reagan's engraved signature, is a gold and blue key chain that bears the presidential seal as well.

"The thing about both visits is, he did not give you the impression that he was going through the motions, even though for him the whole experience was certainly incredibly routine," Caira says.

Caira was not, by the way, the first in his family to keep company with President Reagan. His father, Aldo Caira, had served as the National President of the Sons of Italy from 1981 to 1985. During that time, Aldo and Laura Caira attended a state dinner at the White House, at which such well known Italians as Frank Sinatra and the Prime Minister of Italy were also present. The Cairas were also invited to Reagan's second inauguration.

Then there was that time, in 1983, when the Sons of Italy held their national convention in Atlantic City. Michael Caira answered the phone when Reagan called, handed it to his father, and eventually listened when the conversation was made audible to all through a hook-up. It was quite an experience, Caira says, to hear the President of the United States call his own father, the leader of the Sons of Italy, "Mr. President" as well.

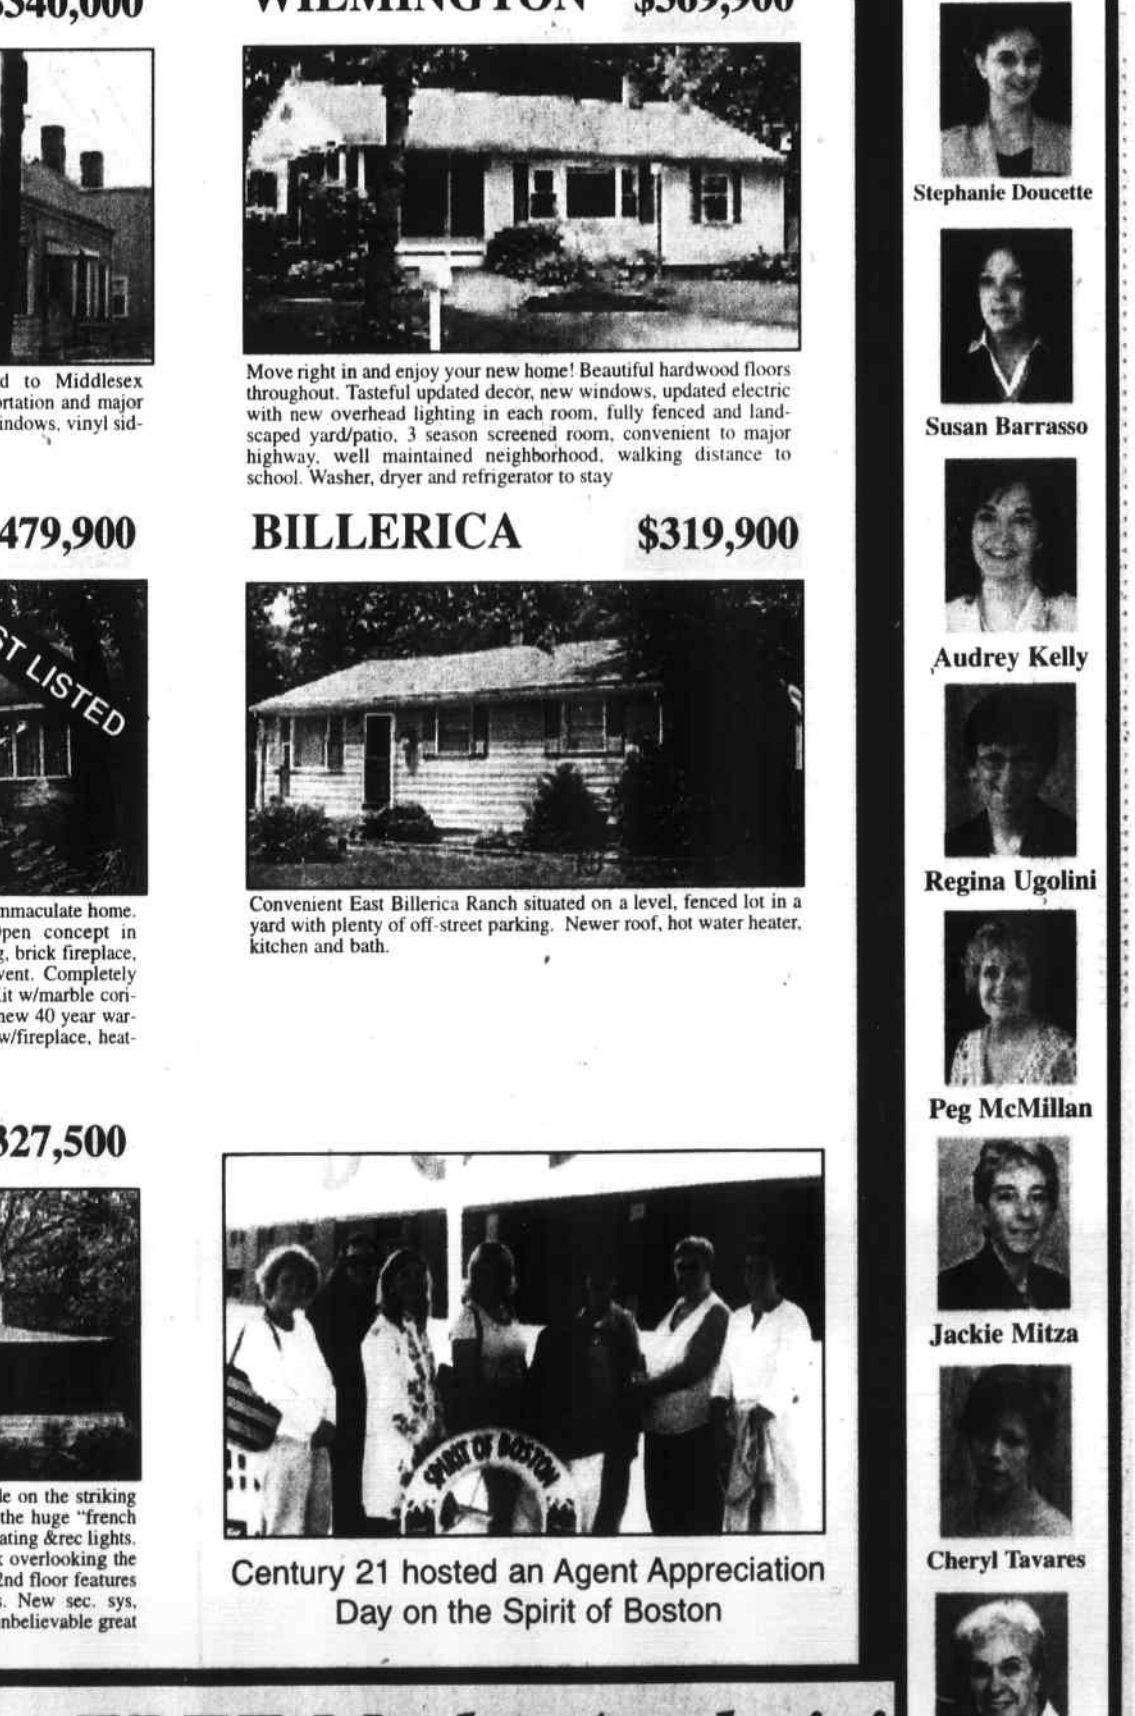

Caira, who has met quite a few dignitaries throughout his career and political involvement, says his encounters with Reagan "tops the list."

"Reagan was a true leader," he says. "He did much for the country's psyche, and he will go down as an important figure in America."

The reason for such an assured place in history, Caira believes, is that Reagan was one who promoted and inspired positive change. As an example, he mentions Reagan's confrontation with communism and the positive relationship he ultimately forged with Mikhail Gorbachev, the leader of the Soviet Union. Such developments led to the stunning collapse of the Berlin Wall in 1989, less than a year after Reagan left office.

"He was a bold man," Caira concludes. "A person who is certain in their beliefs has an easier time leading because they don't have to capitulate. They feel very strongly about what they're doing. That was certainly the case with President Reagan."

The end of the line for two of the best

Wilmington's Jackee Joyce leaves the softball program with 54 victories, as well as beinga two-time Boston Herald All-Scholastic.

Two-time all-scholastic Joyce ends Wildcat days

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

A two-time Boston Herald All-Scholastic, Jackee Joyce leaves Wilmington High with 54 career wins, 42 career shut outs and 648 career strikeouts in one absolutely marvelous three-year career as a Wildcat.

"What can I say besides fantastic," said coach Bob Surran on Joyce's career. "I've seen or known most of the pitching records when Paul Lyman was here, and I asked Jack (Fahey) and Tom Mirisola who had the teams before Paul and neither of them said there was anyone close of putting up the numbers Jackee has.

"I know how good Adrienne (Fay) was, but she was here for just two years. How many pitchers can say they have 54 wins, 42 shut outs and 11 no-hitters? She holds a lot of pitching records here at Wilmington and we're going to miss her a lot."

Amazingly of those numbers, the 54 wins and 42 shutouts, she actually tossed two shut outs in her last start as a Wildcat, when the team was eliminated from the Division 2 state tournament with an 18-inning, 2-0 loss to Triton Regional.

"It was crazy," said Joyce, who iwll be off to pitch at Curry College in the fall. "I was starting to feel (tired) around the 13th inning. At the beginning it seemed like a normal game, but once it got into extra innings it just kept going and going. You would think that every inning would be the last, but it just kept going to another inning.

"It was difficult because our dugouts were under water, so we were standing the whole time and they also wouldn't let us take a bathroom break. You wanted it to end and you wanted to win so badly, but on the other hand you wanted it to keep going. We played in the longest state tournament game ever which is pretty cool."

Joyce came to Wilmington after a year at North Reading and immediately she made an impact. The previous pitcher Katelyn Sughrue, also a Herald All-Scholastic, had graduated leaving a big hole. Joyce came in and as a sophomore she took the 'Cats to the sectional final finishing the season with 16 wins and 141 strikeouts.

Her junior season she finished 18-3 with 202 strikeouts, before this year's incredible season of 20-3 with 305 strikeouts and giving up just four earned runs in 167 innings.

"She was one of the premier pitchers on the North Shore," said Surran. "It's pretty difficult to put into words just what she did as a pitcher."

Joyce said that she begun pitching when she was around ten years old. She was a catcher but her team wasn't very good so she decided to try pitching. In the backyard with her father, Ken, the two were there countless days, countless hours throwing the ball back and forth to one another.

"I remember when I was a freshman I got mono and I lost my speed," she said. "I started to throw again but I just didn't have the speed and I wanted to quit. I was so mad that day. But I kept doing and eventually the speed came back."

Since then, the past three years she has been throwing the ball under the guidance of Surran, who she says she owes a lot too.

"(These three years at WHS) were much more than I thought they would be," she said. "I didn't expect to play for such a great man like Bob. I really enjoyed playing for him. He was always there as a coach and as a friend. If you had a problem you could call him up. He was just a fun, easy going guy. He was kind of like a father figure."

Joyce leaves the diamond with incredible stats and figures. She helped the team to three straight Cape Ann League titles, the first alone and the last two shared. She was a three-time all-conference player, three-time Lowell Sun All-Star, as well as the two selections to the Herald team. She finished with an amazing 54-10 record with 648 strikeouts in 444 innings, with 42 shut outs, 11 no-hitters, one perfect game and a microscopic 0.42 ERA.

"She's just a real competitor," said Surran. "I think she comes across as someone who is not that serious, but I think a lot of that has to do with nerves. That's why I believe she gets better and better as games go along. If teams don't get to her early, it's all over, unless it goes 18 innings, because her butterflies are gone and she's just that competitively tough."

It's tough to argue who is better when it comes down to three all-scholastic pitchers, but certainly Jackee Joyce, along with Adrienne Fay and Katelyn Sughrue are the three top pitchers this elite program has ever had. The past three years, we've been fortunate enough to witness just how good Joyce is.

Elwell leaves Rams, state as all-time strikeout Queen

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

While Red Sox fans are lamenting the fact that they may lose several free agents this off-season, including their ace pitcher, fans of the Shawsheen Tech softball team can certainly relate. The Lady Rams, coming off a second consecutive Division 3 North Sectional championship will be saying good-bye to several key seniors, none more important than superstar pitcher Jenn Elwell of Tewksbury.

Elwell heads to Suffolk University in the fall, and she leaves behind a legacy that will be hard for anyone to match, either at Shawsheen or any other high school in the state. Elwell's career accomplishments at Shawsheen are staggering. In her four years as the Lady Rams starting pitcher she has posted 80 wins against just 18 losses. She also holds the record for career strikeouts by a Massachusetts pitcher with 1,145 for her career. Making the strikeout numbers even more impressive is the fact that she walked only 106 batters for her entire career, with 54 of those free passes coming in her sophomore season.

Elwell also threw 59 shutouts, 13 no-hitters and 21 one hitters. For her career she allowed only 33 earned runs, with just eight of those coming in the past two seasons. She went almost two full seasons without allowing an earned run to a Division 3 opponent, as last season's six earned runs all came against higher Division opponents and this season she did not allow an earned run to a Division 3 opponent until the sectional title game against St. Mary's in a 2-1 Shawsheen victory.

Shawsheen coach Maureen Buckley, who served as an assistant with the Lady Rams during Elwell's first two seasons and took over the head job two years ago, knows how lucky she was to have a pitcher like Elwell on her side.

"Having Jenn was more than a luxury, it was a gift," Buckley said. "A coach gets a player like that only once in a lifetime. Some coaches go their whole career without having a player with her talent, poise and leadership ability."

As amazing as the numbers Elwell put up are, even more impressive in some respects are the other aspects of her game that Buckley mentioned. Her poise and leadership ability, as well as her team first attitude are what truly separated her from other star players.

"She is a total team player in every way," Buckley said. "She is the first one to pick up a player when a mistake is made and she always deflects praise from herself onto her teammates. It would be easy to be selfish with all of her talent, but she understands she is one of many players. That's a real tribute to her."

For Elwell, being a team player just comes naturally, and it comes that much easier due to her affection for her teammates and coaches.

"I love them. Before I came to Shawsheen I was a little tired of softball, but once I was there with Mr. (Ed) Henry and coach Buckley and my teammates I loved it again," Elwell said. "We had T-shirts printed up this year that said 'Talent wins games, Teamwork wins championships' and that is exactly how we and coach Buck approached the season."

Elwell was obviously blessed with a healthy amount of natural talent, but her talent alone is not the reason she has been as successful as she has been. She has improved every year of her career in both her pitching and hitting, culminating in this season's 0.14 ERA. Experience obviously played a part in her improvement, but it was her work ethic that pushed her over the top.

"Jenn takes a great deal of pride in her pitching," Buckley said. "She comes to practice every day prepared to work hard. She runs her entire workout with the catch without being asked. She understands that you have to work hard if you want to get better."

As great a pitcher as Elwell is, she is also quite the accomplished hitter, batting cleanup for the Lady Rams and leading the team with a .341 batting average and a .401 on base percentage. She also had 10 RBI, six walks, three doubles and two triples on the season.

"She was a big part of our offense," Buckley said. "She is also probably our smartest base runner, but I always substitute a runner for her because I don't want to see her twist an ankle or something like that. She is a complete player."

And Elwell brings the same work ethic and excellence from the softball field to the classroom. She was President of her senior class and for the second consecutive year was voted the Female Scholar Athlete of the Year at Shawsheen Tech. Her commitment to softball helped with her classroom achievements.

"My dad (Mark) always told me that if I want to play softball I would have to do well in school," Elwell said. "And coach Buckley always old me that as a captain I could not get in trouble, so that really helped me to work so hard in school."

As President of the class, Elwell was required to speak at graduation. Always unflappable on the mound, this was a new challenge for her, but she responded with her usual grace.

"I was really nervous at first, but once I started talking and saw all my friends I started to relax and I felt better," Elwell said.

The graduation speech was Elwell's last official act at Shawsheen Tech, and after majoring in business at the Tech, she will now move on to Suffolk, where along with hoping to make a name for herself on the softball field, Elwell will try to excel as either an accounting or marketing major. Elwell knows that it will be a big transition going from the friendly confines of Shawsheen to the new environs of Boston and Suffolk, but she is looking forward to the change.

"It's sort of scary, but I know once I get there and get used to it I will be OK," Elwell said. "I know I will have to earn my spot with the softball team because they have a senior pitcher and a junior pitcher and I will also have to adjust to the mound distance being 42.5 feet instead of 40 feet. But I will work on it."

No doubt working hard will not be a problem for Elwell, and Buckley is fully confident that her three time Globe (including Division 3 Player of the Year in 2002) and Herald All-Scholastic will be up making the adjustments necessary at the college level.

"I can't imagine Jenn being anything but successful. She will make that team better, because that is just what she does with her poise and leadership," Buckley said. "I have no doubt that we will be reading about her at Suffolk just as we have read about her at Shawsheen Tech."

Tewksbury resident Jenn Elwell leaves Shawsheen Tech with 80 wins and the state's all-time strikeout holder with 1,145.

Lojek, North squad tackle the South

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

LOWELL – Whenever you get to play a sport you love for one of the last times, you cherish those moments. Whenever you get a chance to meet some new people and become friends with them, you also enjoy those moments. And whenever you can help out other people, you certainly always can take that to heart. That's exactly what Charlie Lojek was able to do on Friday.

The recent WHS graduate played defensive lineman for Team North who beat Team South, 20-6, in the 26th annual Shiner's Football game played at UMass-Lowell's Cushing Field. The Shriner's Game is a senior all-star team, and the last player from Wilmington to earn a spot on the North team was Josh Howlett, a tight end from the 1999 team.

"This was awesome," said Lojek. "You get to play against some of the best players in Mass. It was good because everyone got equal playing time, and this is just something I won't soon forget. I'm happy that we beat the South, and this is just great to play to help out the Shriner's.‰

Lojek only played in a handful of series because he injured his right shoulder. He said that won't keep him out when he suits up for the last time, next month in the Harry Agganis Game which features many of his Wildcat teammates from last fall.

"I'm going to UMass-Lowell, so this is my next to last game, and then it's the Agganis Bowl," he said. "I'm OK with that."

Lojek and the rest of the North team did a terrific job of shutting down the South's prolific offense. After the South scored on its first possession of the game, the North defense held them in check the rest of the way, letting the offense carry them over the top. Reading quarterback Chris Pizzotti, who will be heading to Harvard University, and Mark Gaudet of Middlesex Prep were the two offensive stars of the game.

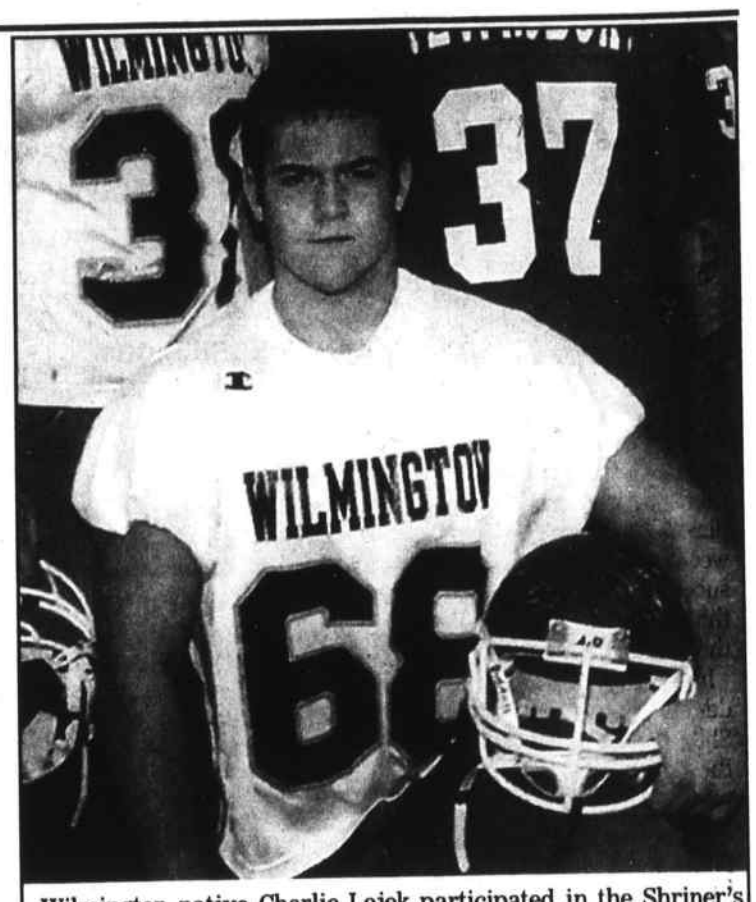

Inbetween the touchdowns that both Pizzotti and Gaudet delivered, it was guys like Lojek who were in the trenches battling some big offensive linemen of the South. Lojek had a couple of series in the first half, and played particularly well in the South's final drive of the first quarter. While the South was driving down field, Lojek made a terrific defensive tackle during one play, despite being doubled up against two very big players.

"There were some big dogs on that team," he said. "I was getting doubled teammed but you just have to stick in there and try to do your best."

With several nice plays as a defensive lineman, and his team coming away with a victory, Lojek said it was certainly an enjoyable night despite his shoulder taking some pain.

"It was a great experience," he said. "The coaching staff was great."

Besides, Lojek, other locals who in the game were Shawsheen Tech football coach Al Costabile who was on the North sidelines as an assistant, and Wilmington native Skip McCarthy, who was one of the officials.

Wilmington native Charlie Lojek participated in the Shriner's All-Star football game on Friday night.

Four locals tabbed as All-Scholastics

Three locals were named to Sunday's Boston Globe All-Scholastic team. Wilmington native Steve Emery was named to the boys golf team, while, Tewksbury natives Jenn Elwell and Meghan Mootrey were named to the softball and girls track teams, respectively. Wilmington native Jackee Joyce along with Elwell were also named to the Boston Herald All-Scholastic softball teams.

Emery, a senior at Austin Prep, finished the season as the Cougars, top golfer with an average score of 73. He placed third at the Catholic Central League tournament with a 73 score as well.

Mootrey had a superb season for the Tewksbury High girls track-and-field team. She was a three-time champion at the MVC Meet, taking first in the pole vault, 300 hurdles and was part of the winning 4x100 relay team. At the state meet, she placed first in the hurdles and followed that up with a second place at the all-state meet with a school record time of 45.1 seconds.

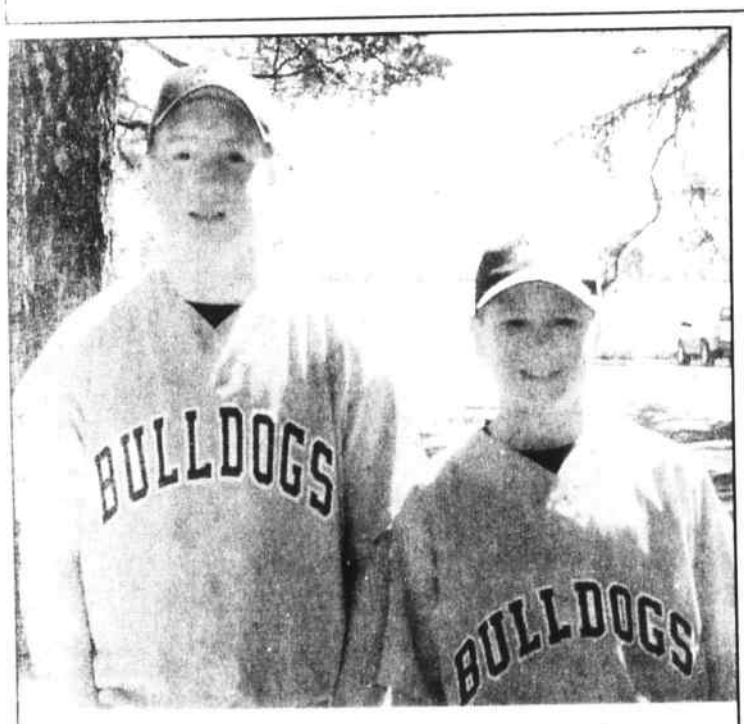

Elwell became the state's all-time strikeout record holder this season ending her marvelous career with 1,145 K's, which was better than flamethrower Lisa Moore back in the late 80s, who ended with 1,078. Elwell was 19-5 this season taking her team to the Eastern Mass final, while the Rams also won three North titles in her four years.

Elwell was the CAC MVP for the third year in a row and was named an all-conference player for the fourth straight year. She struck out 329 batters this season, while tossing 17 shut outs, 5 no-hitters and had an amazing 0.14 ERA.

Elwell along with Wilmington High graduates Lauren Rappoli and Tiffany Zolt, were also nomintaed for the Globe's Phelps Scholar Female Athlete award given out to just four females across the state.

Congratulations goes out to the four locals for being among the elite to be named as all-scholastics.

MacIsaac brothers heading to Florida

Two of Wilmington's own are playing baseball on the Eastern Mass Bulldogs 14 and under AAU baseball team.

The team finished the regular season fourth in New England. Robert MacIsaac is the starting second baseman and the team's No. 1 hitter. Stephen McIsaac is the starting first baseman for the Bulldogs. Stephen is the power hitter on the team. Both Robert's and Stephen's defense has been outstanding for the team all season, as the twins have turned several double plays together.

Coach Brian Straccia has said that it is a pleasure to work with both Robert and Stephen. He also said they are well disciplined and focused on the baseball diamond. The Bulldogs are heading to Florida next month to participate in the National tournament. The team will be competiting with all AAU teams across the country.

Tewksbury resident Jenn Elwell is a three-time Boston Globe All-Scholastic selection.

Boys Under 11A team crowned champs

The Wilmington Buoys Under 11 A youth soccer travel team had a very successful season with a record of 4-1-5, which qualified them to play in the Commissioners Cup which was played at Shawsheen Field this weekend. It was also a great success. Wilmington played in three games coming away as the league champions.

In the first game, Wilmington defeated Stoneham, 1-0. Marc Shibilia scored the lone goal of the game coming in the first minute of play. The defense pitched the shut out behind the play of and Andrew Spurr, Cameron Garrant and Jeffrey Legar.

The second game had Wilmington and Chelmsford end in a scoreless tie. The goaltending of Adam Colella was superb as the team continued its streak of two games without letting up a goal. Midfielders Mark Doremus, Chris Frissore and Andy Owens put in valiant efforts, as did fullback Scott Derickson.

The third and final game played on Father's Day, was against Medford. The Mustangs jumped out to a 1-0 lead on a penalty kick, but Wilmington was able to stay in the game behind incredible saves in net by Colella. In the second half, the score was tied 1-1 with a goal by Nick Godzyk. The game continued to go back-and-forth until just a few minutes left when Godzyk netted his second goal of the game giving Wilmington the 2-1 victory.

Forwards David Sughrue, Mark Shibilia, Jimmy DeRosa, William Prince and Eric Antico provided all kinds of scoring chances throughout the tournament. Midfielders Cody Pelletier, Robbie Fisher and Chris DiCecca showed tremendous hustle throughout the series as well.

Thanks to coaches DiCecca, Godzyk and Colella for all of the hard work and time spent into this unforgettable season.

Tewksbury girls lacrosse team finishes successful season

The Tewksbury Girls' U14 lacrosse team wrapped a very successful season with a victory over the visiting Arlington Spy Ponders by a score of 9 - 4. Once again on display was their tremendous teamwork and unselfish play, as Tewksbury boasted 9 different goal scorers for their total of 8 goals. Leading the way on the defensive side of the field were Molly Martel, Kate Plant and Lauren Chamberland. Holding down the fort in goal was Amanda Taylor who made many great saves.

Just as important as scoring the goals, were those assisting with nice passing led by Jenn Foley, Sam Magnell and Kelsey MacAvoy. Scoring one goal each were Amanda Beatrice, Anastasia Pappas, Deanna Dascoli, Katalin Soni, Kelsey Richards, Jess Pagonis, Allysa Galvao, Laura Callan and Leanne Belmonte.

The win completed an incredible inaugural season for the U14 team, and culminated in an undefeated regular season schedule. The girls rolled through their regular season and dominated local Merrimack Valley rivals such as Chelmsford, Lowell, and Billerica. The impressive record is further accented when considering that the Tewksbury girls outscored their competitors by a combined total of 69 goals to 12 this year.

The coaching staff of Steve Foley, Carl Belmonte, Tara Kelly, Jim Pagonis and Nancy Conrad, who like to extend their congratulations to this year's U14 team, and wish them tremendous success as they take their game to the high school level next year.

Fitzpatrick golf tourney, August 10

Susan L. Fitzpatrick, a longtime Wilmington resident and single parent of Jonathan (age 13) and Catherine (age 10), who lost a courageous three-year battle with breast cancer on July 31, 2000, will be remembered in a memorial golf tournament this summer. The proceeds raised from this memorial event will be used towards an educational trust fund for Susan's children, Jonathan and Catherine.

Please join us as we honor Susan L. Fitzpatrick at the fourth annual Susan L. Fitzpatrick Memorial Golf Classic at Sky Meadow Country Club, Nashua, NH. on August 16, 2004. You can enjoy a great round of golf and perhaps come away with one of the exciting door prizes or silent auction items that will be available. Your participation will enable you to honor the memory of a wonderful woman and mother while assisting with the future of her children.

For our sponsors, through your support the participants will have the opportunity to enjoy exciting door prizes and gifts. Many within the community will see your company's generosity and support. Business owners and managers also have the opportunity to sponsor a golf hole during the tournament, which includes signage acknowledging your sponsorship.

Thanks to one of our sponsors, PixelPath Design Group, additional information can be found at our website which they designed and donated for our tournament www.memorialgolfclassic.org. If you have any questions, please contact a Tournament Committee Member listed below:

Giants and Brewers match up in a slugfest

Giants 19, Brewers 13

The Giants and the Brewers met for the final time last week and the Giants swept the season series with a 19-13 victory. Kristen Browne started on the mound and held the Brewers to only 3 hits. The Giants scored the maximum 7 runs in the 2nd inning thanks to some sloppy defensive play by the Brewers and a RBI-double by Allison Barme. Katie Cole added a RBI-double in the 5th, in which the Giants scored 5 runs. Multiple runs were scored by Shannon Jones, Ashley Taylor, Barme, Cole, and Browne.

The Brewers had only 6 hits the entire game with Brittany Schuh and Colleen MaGee each getting 2 and scoring 3 runs a piece. Shelbi Rygiel had a RBI-double in the 5th and Nina Burke singled and scored in the same inning when Colleen Kennedy was out at first on a close play. Kennedy and Taylor Kindred both scored twice in the game. Rygiel and Breanne Kindred both pitched well for the Brewers but had little support from their defense.

Brewers 17, Royals 16

In the final game of the season the Brewers edged the Royals 17-16 when they scored in the bottom of the 7th. It was a back and forth battle between these two evenly matched teams. Speed was the name of the game in this one as there were 24 total stolen bases by both teams. Tied at 8 a piece after 3 innings, the Brewers scored 3 in the 4th and 3 more in the 5th to pull ahead but the Royals, after scoring 1 in the 4th, came right back in the 6th with 7 runs to take a 16-14 lead. The Brewers scored 2 in the bottom of the 6th to tie the game and with a minute to spare before the deadline, they went into the 7th tied at 16.

Pitcher Shelbi Rygiel put down the first two Royal hitters herself when they hit back to the mound. An error and a walk put the go ahead runner at 3B but Rygiel got the batter to pop up to Colleen Kennedy at SS for the out. In the home half of the 7th Taylor Kindred and Bridget Griffin each singled and moved into scoring position via an error and stolen base. A wild pitch allowed Kindred to score the winning run and the Brewers were victorious.

Nicole Bockus has 2 hits and scored 3 runs for the Royals. Tatum McNally singled, walked 4 times, and score three. McNally also had 3 stolen bases. Samantha Souza doubled and scored twice. Hillary and Melissa Mahoney each walked 3 times, with Hillary adding 2 stolen bases. Erin Conway's defense robbed several Brewers of hits. She chased down a couple of hard hit fly balls for outs. For the Brewers, lead off hitter Brittany Schuh reached base 5 times, with 3 hits and 2 walks. She also had 5 stolen bases. Shelbi Rygiel, Taylor Kindred, and Ali Lyman all had 3 hits a piece, with Rygiel and Lyman belting doubles.

Colleen Kennedy also had a double among her two hits, added to 3 stolen bases. Breanne Kindred had two hits and scored twice. Dawn DiCicco reached base 4 times, via the walk and scored twice. Nicole Vigneau walked twice and scored once.

AA Phillies

Congratulations are in order to the Phillies who represent the AA 10 year old Wilmington Little League Division. They finished their season Friday night with a win bringing their record to an outstanding 12 wins,1 loss and 1 tie.

Coaches Jim Dee, Jim Magliano and Paul Pothier should be congratulated on a job well Done. It was a total team effort in every sense of the word from the coaches to kids.

Each player should be proud of their achievement this season. Congratulations to a wonderful group of kids. John Keough, Jon-Luke Dee, Nick Colella, Colin McGuire, Matt Dee, Wayne Knoops, Ian Haggerty, Nick Whalen, Nick Casella, Pat Magliano, Adam Siegel, Ben Disanto and Dan Pothier.

Orioles and Indians battle for title

By LOUIE CIMAGLIA

The Wilmington Major League baseball regular season is coming to an end and this past week the three-game series between the Orioles and Indians was held at the Rotary Park and what an exciting series it was.

The Orioles are a team of veterans who use prior knowledge to earn their victories. The Indians are totally different. A much smaller and younger team with not nearly as much experience as the birds.

Game 1.

The Orioles jump out to a six run lead in the bottom of the first and that was it. The O's then blanked the Indians and in all of 45 minutes the Orioles won, 6-0. The Orioles superior size and experience absolutely ran circles around the Indians' young club. Hope looked all but lost. The Indians would have to win the next two games for them to pull this out of the fire.

Game 2.

Once again the O's score in the first, but the scrappy Indians battle back and its one to one after one. Then the Orioles do some more damage in the third, by making it three to one. Then, the runs came in buckets. And when it rains, it pours.

The Indians kept pace by chalking up a few, but the O's refused to let go. In the top of the sixth, with the Indians on the thresh hold of victory, winning seven to five. One of the Orioles leading batters came up to bat. With a man on first, he crushed a pitch to deep right center field and just like that it is seven up. But the Indians had one more trick left. On a fly ball to center that couldn't be caught the speedy Indians motored around the base paths. The relay missed by a second and as the joyous Indians mobbed in the middle of the diamond their storm cloud seemed lifted.

Game 3.

You write the script. How would you want it to end? The upstart Indians countering the mighty Orioles. Perhaps there is a rivalry brewing. Or maybe something else is brewing. A fantastic finish that can only be credited to youth baseball. Rows of parents and friends are tiered up and down the fences at Rotary Park, cheering on the kids they came to see. There is no better place for baseball. And this championship is no exception.

Mariners take AAA baseball game

Mariners win AAA Championship

The AAA season concluded with an exciting ballgame as the Mariners defeated the Royals 13-8 for this years title. Both teams showed great determination and sportsmanship during the final round of the playoffs. The Royals took the lead in the first inning. Ryan Derian collected the first of his three hits to lead off the game. The Mariners then recorded a double play when Mike Micalizzi threw of John Langenfeld at first and first baseman Robert Musto threw to third to get Derian. Brian Hurley then singled to left and was driven home by Cori Michals single to right field.

The Mariners responded with two runs in the home half of the first. Micalizzi walked and went to third base on Kyle Kirby's single. Paul Duffy singled home Micalizzi and later scored on a Musto single for a 2-1 lead. The Royals came right back in the top of the second with two runs. Brian Good walked and scored on a Sebastian Serrano single to left field. Serrano later scored on a passed ball to make the score 3-2 Royals.

With two out in the bottom of the second the Mariners regained the lead. Robert Cameron started things when he singled to right field. Adam Paquette was hit by a pitch and Sean Adams walked. Cameron scored on a Kyle Bradley single and Paquette was forced home when Micalizzi walked.

The Royals were held scoreless in the third but only after Kevin Mitchell saved a run by throwing out a Royals base runner at home for the second out of the inning. The Mariners followed by scoring six runs in the home half of the third. Seven straight singles by Duffy, Musto, John Keegan, Jonathan Davidson, Mitchell, Aaron Misiph and Cameron generated four runs. Cameron scored on a base hit by Bradley and Paquette scored the last run of the inning after being forced in on a walk to Micalizzi.

Once again, showing a never say die attitude, the Royals responded with four runs of their own. Brian Hurley tripled to center field to lead off the fourth inning. After a flyout to center field Jonathan Terlaga singled to right scoring Hurley. Brian Good's walk was followed by Serrano's RBI single scoring Terlaga. After a strikeout and a passed ball, Jake Bailey singled to right field scoring Good and Serrano making the score 10-7.

In the bottom of the fourth, the Mariners plated two runs with RBI's going to Mitchell on a sacrifice bunt and Misiph on a single. In the top of the fifth, the Royal's Sean Woodbury started things with a single. Mariner reliever John Keegan struck out the next two hitters. Derian then hit a rope in the gap in left center for a double. Keegan then recorded the third out of the inning with a strikeout, stranding runners on second and third.

The Mariners added a run in the bottom of the fifth. In the sixth, Brian Hurley led off with his third hit of the evening and scored on Michals' double. Mariner pitcher Musto then settled down to retire the side with the final score 13-8. All the boys played exceptionally well during this playoff series including Royals John Fabiano, Matt Brophy and Diki Tsukamoto. A great season was had by all.

A special thanks to all the coaches and volunteers who made the AAA season a success and great experience for all the players.

Wallace chips in at Regional tourney

Ron Wallace, Tewksbury helped lead Lightning Baseball to a perfect 5-0 record in the second round of pool play in the New England AAU Region Tournament this past weekend. On Friday night Lightning baseball defeated Ballplayers (from Worcester, MA) 12-2.

On Saturday Lightning Baseball defeated the RI Tides (from Providence, RI) 6-5 and Americas Pastimes (from Hudson, MA) 8-5. On Sunday, Lightning Baseball defeated the Ramblers (from Fall River, MA) 12-2 and the Firebirds (from Salem, NH) 11-3. With the 5 wins Lightning Baseball, the defending AAU 13U Mass State Champions, extended their perfect record to 31-0. Lightning Baseball continues to hold the #1 seed heading into the final round of the Tournament a 8 team double elimination round to be played at Tufts University.

Ronnie Wallace, Tewksbury, used his arm and his bat to lead Lightning baseball to a 5 game sweep in the 2nd round of pool play. At the plate Ron went 5 for 12 with 2 singles, 3 doubles, 3 RBI's, 6 walks and a whopping 14 runs scored. On the mound Ron was the winning pitcher as Lightning Baseball defeated the Ballplayers 12-2. Ron scattered 6 hits while striking out 2 and walking only 2 batters.

Strength and conditioning program offered at NECC

Athletes looking to gain strength, speed, or power should check out Northern Essex Community College's, 4th Annual Sports Specific Strength & Conditioning Program. Designed for athletes of all skill levels and ages, the program is directed by NECC's Coordinator of Sport and Leisure Studies, Rob Parker, C.S.C.S. and will run Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to noon, July 13 through August 19. It will be held in the college's Sport and Fitness Center, located on the Haverhill Campus.

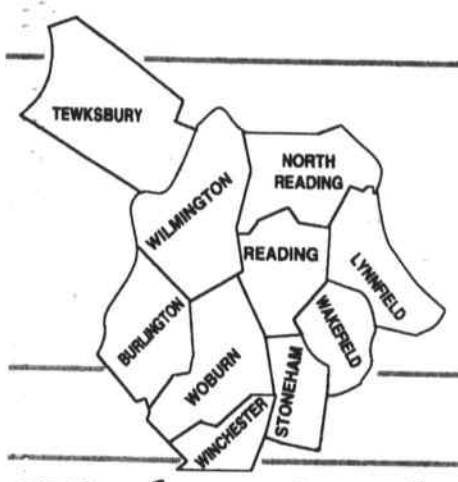

The goal is to help athletes optimize their peak performance in a variety of athletic fields. This rigorous program will improve athletes speed, strength, power, and conditioning for upcoming sport seasons or for general fitness.

The five-week intensive program includes free athletic performance assessments: including flexibility, balance, anaerobic conditioning, muscular stamina, and power; individualized program design based on sports specific needs, personal fitness goals, and current fitness levels; and access to Certified Personal Trainers from the American Council on Exercise and the National Federation of Personal Trainers who will provide participants unlimited and guided use of the fitness facility, which includes resistance machines and free-weights. The cost is $90 per person. Participation is limited. For more information contact Rob Parker at 978-556-3823 or rparker@necc.mass.edu.

With campuses in Haverhill and Lawrence and extension sites in Andover and Methuen, Northern Essex Community College is a state-assisted college, offering over 70 associate degree and certificate programs as well as hundreds of non credit courses designed for personal enrichment and career growth. Close to 11,000 students ranging from recent high school graduates to workers employed locally attend classes days, evenings, and weekends. Northern Essex is the only state college located in the lower Merrimack Valley Region of Massachusetts.

Winchester's Mike Lynch:

A good sport on NewsCenter 5

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

The Bar Association's loss is a win for many sports fans that turn into WCVB-TV 5 for the latest scores of both professional and local school sports, from the affable and knowledgeable Mike Lynch.

However, upon his graduation with a Bachelors of Art in Government from Harvard University, the Swampscott native and now Winchester family man, went through a turn of events that changed the course of Lynch's history. During that time, he started working with former Red Sox and Harvard sports announcer Ned Martin as the statistician for the Harvard football games. The two had become friendly while Lynch was playing football and baseball at the Cambridge institution. While in college, Lynch quarterbacked and kicked for the Harvard team that won the 1975 Ivy League Football Championship.

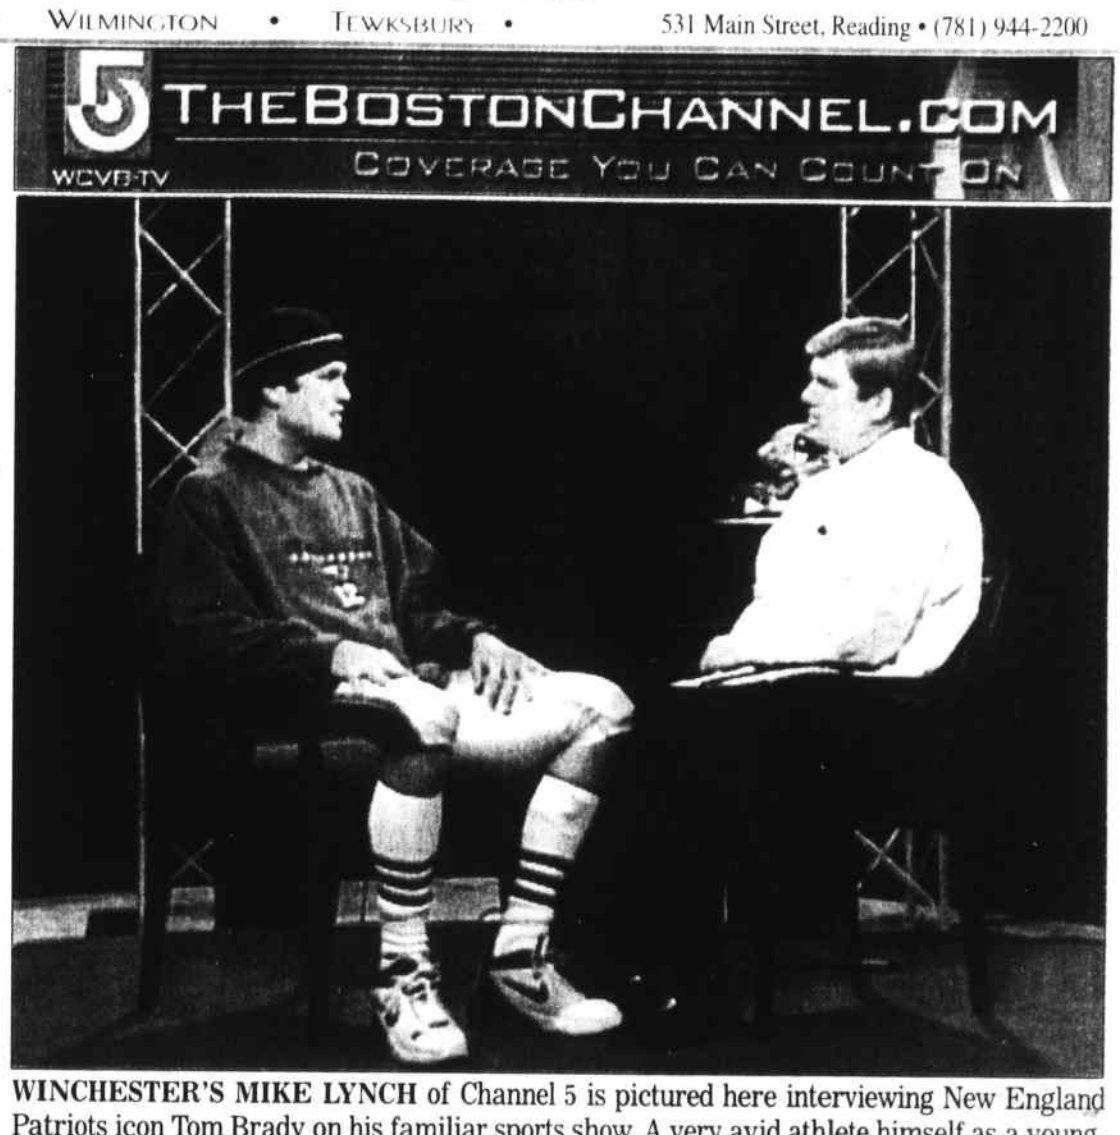

"My plan was to take a year off and then go to law school," Lynch recalled. "However, I convinced Ned Martin to let me be his statistician." At that time, Lynch had previous broadcast experience, having worked on the former WLYN-A.M. radio station as a high school sports announcer.

As the story often goes in show business, Martin's on-air partner got sick, and the station, WITS asked Lynch to go on the air as a fill-in. The following year, 1980, it was Martin and Lynch all the time.

Lynch, who is now the principal sports anchor of WCVB's six and eleven o'clock nightly newscasts, started to work with Brian Leary, who got him a part-time sports reporter job with Channel Five, when it was WHDH-TV, in 1982. He went full-time in 1983 as the Weekend Sports Anchor. He has been with the station ever since and the law career went by the boards.

Lynch to S-8

WINCHESTER'S MIKE LYNCH of Channel 5 is pictured here interviewing New England Patriots icon Tom Brady on his familiar sports show. A very avid athlete himself as a youngster and in college, Lynch has become a household name in Boston sports over the past 20 plus years.

NORMAN LEBLANC, HERE WITH HIS WIFE, DIANE, is the President of the Auxiliary Unit 101 in Woburn. Shown here, they are in front of the Atlantic Memorial. Woburn Veteran's Agent Joseph Simas, one of the organizers of the event, noted there was so much to do and see, another trip might be organized in the fall when the group can have a little more time, with much less of the crowds, to take everything in.

Area Veterans take trip to WWII Memorial

By WILLIAM R. 'WOODY' FORD

(Editor's note: William R. "Woody" Ford, a Tewksbury resident, was a member of the 107th Evacuation Hospital during the European Theater of Operations in World War II. Over Memorial Day, he joined a bus load of some 30 World War II area veterans to attend the dedication of the World War II Memorial in Washington, D.C. The bus trip, also attended by many family members of Word War II veterans, was organized by the Burlington and Woburn Veteran's offices, through Robert Hogan and Joseph Simas. Ford, who has written for many veteran's publications, recounts the weekend's events here.)

There are daily events - and then there are "Special Events!"

If you had been present at the parking area near the Woburn Police Station on Thursday, May 27 to observe the early-morning arrival of area WWII military Veterans, their spouses, children and grandchildren as they prepared to depart via motor coach to Washington, D.C. for the formal dedication of a long-awaited WWII Memorial Monument splendidly honoring all members of Tom Brokaw's aptly named "Greatest Generation," you would have witnessed an enthusiastic display of good fellowship, and vivid excitement, yet somehow tempered by deep thoughts of the solemnity of the momentous event that awaits them.

The bus, chauffeured by Ben Stuckert, a most congenial and informative individual from Taunton, was proudly escorted

From S-1

"Well," I exclaimed, "if it is a FAKE, then I'm out a BUCK AND A HALF!"...

I once asked a farmer, "How can you tell the difference between the GOOSE and the GANDER?"

"I can't," the farmer replied, adding, "And I DON'T CARE. It's okay just as long as THEY find that out for themselves!"...

My wife Kathy and I went to an ART EXHIBIT last weekend and she just couldn't make HEADS or TAILS of what the artists were trying to portray in their artwork.

She said to one of the exhibit's organizers, "Sir, do you call this AWFUL looking thing art?"

The man smiled and said "No, ma'am. I call that a MIRROR!"...

Folks, I WELCOME FEEDBACK from my readers even if it's a HARPOON like this following bit: "Dear Chipper, I read your column every week and I got to thinking. The city ought to build a STATUE of you and place it along Revere Beach. That way, the BIRDS will tend to STAY AWAY from all the other statues and the beach-goers!"...

"Don't stick your ELBOW out too far or it may end up in another car," said Burma Shave.

And folks, don't forget that if you ask for "ONE MORE for the road" or you may get a STATE TROOPER for a chaser!...

A typical Hollywood romance: First it's "I DO," then it's "ADIEU" and, finally it's "I'LL SUE!"...

My cousin Aldo Catalucci told the doctor, "EVERYTHING HURTS when I touch it! I touch my toe, knee, shoulder and my head - all of them HURT!"

The doctor examined Aldo and finally exclaimed, "Why sir, you have a BROKEN index finger!"

As you can probably tell, Aldo isn't always the SHINIEST PENNY in the FOUNTAIN...

If you want to be well-liked, never tell LIES about yourself and be careful about telling the TRUTH about others!...

Folks, have you ever noticed that when you LOSE something, it always happens to turn up in the LAST PLACE you look?

Of course it's in the last place you look - only a FOOL would keep on searching even AFTER they've found what they're looking for!...

There isn't much to talk about at Aunt Nora's Garden Club meetings until two or three members leave. It's then that ALL HELL BREAKS LOOSE...

I used to believe that PRACTICE makes PERFECT, but not anymore. That was until I heard my wife trying to learn how to play the violin!...

Why is it that if I do something right, Kathy NEVER REMEMBERS. But when I do something wrong, she NEVER, FORGETS!...

"Good heavens, Chipper!" Bob Bonney exclaimed, "who gave you that BLACK EYE?"

"A BRIDEGROOM slugged me after I KISSED the bride following the wedding ceremony!" I replied.

"I just can't believe that anyone would object to that fabulous ANCIENT CUSTOM," Bob replied just before I added, "Well, I guess it was a bit TOO FAR after the ceremony - two years!"...

I was once invited to speak at a BANK MANAGERS and EMPLOYEES CONVENTION dinner that was held at the Boston Naval Shipyard Officer's Club.

I figured that the event would be an ideal time to ask for a LOAN to repair my this old house of mine. My speech was very WELL RECEIVED and following my speaking engagement, many went OUTSIDE to the PIER.

Bank Manager John Addonizzio accidentally fell into the water and while someone ran for a life preserver, I shouted, "Hey John, can you FLOAT A LOAN to me?" Thinking back, maybe that wasn't the best time to ask...

Kathy just had a FACIAL and a visit to the HAIR SALON. When she arrived home from her day of beauty, I shouted, "WOW! You look like the CAT'S MEOW!"

She snapped right back with, "And you Chipper, resemble what the CAT DRAGGED IN!"...

Folks, do you remember the old saying that goes, "MAN works from SUN TO SUN, but a WOMAN'S work is NEVER DONE."

Well, I know the reason for why this is true at my house; with all the game shows, talk shows and soap operas on television, even my dog feels neglected!...

Richie Gillis joined WEIGHT WATCHERS and LOST 40 POUNDS. He put most of it back on because he said that he hasn't been to a meeting in a month of SUNDAES.

Rotary International

Warren Jackson receives 2004 Paul Harris Award

The Malden Rotary Club will honor long-time member and local businessman Warren H. Jackson of North Reading, with its highest honor, the Paul P. Harris Award on Wednesday, June 23.

"I'm ecstatic," Jackson said of the honor. "I am absolutely beyond all thoughts on being honored with the Paul Harris Award."

The award is named for Rotary International founder Paul P. Harris. It is the highest honor a local chapter can bestow on one of its members and is given for exemplary service to the club and/or the community.

Jackson, the founder of Jackson Industries in Malden, has been a member of the service club's Malden chapter for over 20 years and represents the second of three generations of his family to be a member. His father, Herman Jackson was a member and son David, of Marblehead is presently a member.

David Jackson said of his father's award " Rotary is a very important part of my father's life and he is thrilled to be honored with this prestigious award."

Warren is well known to all who join or visit the club during its Wednesday lunch meetings at Anthony's Restaurant in Malden. He has been the official greeter for the chapter during most of his membership.

Jackson started one of his businesses at its present Broadway location in 1957. At that time it was known as Lift Parts Service Company. The named was changed to Jackson Industries to represent the companies move into vending machines and games in the 1970's.

As his son David, grew into taking over the operations of Jackson Industries, Warren, a graduate of the Boston University School of Public Relations and Communications, turned his sights toward ownership of the Malden Evening News-Medford Mercury, which he purchased in 1985, changing the name to the Daily News-Mercury.

Doug Wood-Boyle, a former editor of the Daily News-Mercury said of Jackson, "He always cares about what is taking place in Malden and always wanted to present the community in a positive fashion. He was enthusiastic about carrying on a tradition of being an active member of the Massachusetts Bar Associations Press/Bar Ethics Committee."

Jackson, one of the original incorporators of KISS 108 radio, is also an active member of the Malden Chamber of Commerce and other local organizations. He has been quietly generous with many local charities and in several national and state political campaigns.

Jackson is also a graduate of Northeastern University. He served in the U. S. Army as an instructor in Military Law and Psychological Warfare at the

About the Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

OH GOOD, OH GOOD, TOO BAD

Woburn's Spencer is hired in Wilmington

"According to Wilmington Police Chief Robert Spencer, you never know who's watching you and you never can tell how you're affecting somebody, so it's always important to be a role model, particularly for children," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"If you follow this code, Spencer believes, you may very well be surprised by its impact someday.

"'You could meet somebody 15 or 20 years from now, and they'll remind you that you once took the time to stop, listen and give them advice, even though it may have only taken ten minutes of your time,' Spencer says. 'You'll realize that you made a difference in that person's life. You never know how you're going to affect somebody.'

"Spencer's philosophy is based on experience. When he was a kid, growing up in Woburn in the fifties, he especially admired Patrolman Leo McElhiney, who connected with youths on many levels, particularly when it came to local organized sports. Spencer fondly recalls that McElhiney used to see him and his friends on their way out of the Strand some nights and offer to walk them home, checking the locks on nearby homes and businesses along the way.

"'That was my first glimpse,' says Spencer, a graduate of the Class of '59 at Woburn High School, referring to his introduction to law enforcement. 'He was out there, doing things with the kids. He was a real nice guy, open and outgoing. I got a sense that his was a nice job to have.'

"In time, McElhinney would ascend through the ranks of the Woburn Police Department and become its chief until he retired in 1986.

"Also in time, Spencer would grow up, ascend through the ranks of the Wilmington Police Department, and become its chief.

"On Wednesday, May 26, 2004, Spencer was officially sworn in as the Chief of the Wilmington Police Department...."

'Ahead of the curve' in Burlington

"As funds are needed in the Fire Department overtime account for training for a new operation, the Board of Selectmen voted unanimously to approve two line item transfers totaling $35,000," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The funds will be used for firefighters' training on what Assistant Fire Chief Lee Callahan called a mass decontamination unit, a large trailer-type vehicle that assists hospitals during major emergencies.

"'We will be ready for natural disaster events, and, God forbid, if Burlington ever had to deal with a weapons-of-mass-destruction event,' Callahan told the selectmen.

"The apparatus was acquired through a grant, Callahan said.

"Town Administrator Robert Mercier made the requests to the board to transfer $20,000 from the full-time account, and $15,000 from the part-time account, both to the overtime account.

"'We have some shortage in the overtime account,' said Mercier.

"Callahan said this is the type of apparatus that will be requested in other cities and towns if there are disastrous events in those communities.

"'We could be called down to like a Springfield or a Barnstable,' Callahan said. 'We have to train individually, we have to learn how to set it up.'

"The firefighters have to train on the apparatus twice a year, Callahan said, and 'we have to have certain amount of money set aside to bring in extra people for the training.'

"There still has to be a sufficient amount of personnel on duty to answer calls while others are training, Callahan added.

"When the trailer was unveiled at Lahey Clinic, Mercier said, there were representatives present from other communities, including Belmont, Reading and Brookline.

"'Burlington is at the forefront with this. Burlington is ahead of the curve with this with regard to other communities,' Mercier stated...."

Grounded again in Wakefield

"The Wakefield Board of Health has once again decided that swimming will be prohibited in Lake Quannapowitt," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The local health officials cited the tight fiscal situation as the primary factor behind their decision. There are no available funds that could be used to pay lifeguards.

"Following this announcement at a Board of Health meeting, Board Clerk Annette Gange announced that 'the hazardous waste collection day was a huge success.'

"Health Agent Peter Gray

Tip top in Stoneham

"Andi Wang didn't know anything about the math team as she entered the Stoneham Middle School as a sixth grader last September," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"If there had been no team, Andi would have never known the difference.

"Fortunately, for Andi and the other middle schoolers, StonehamBank stepped in and sponsored the team for the entire 2003-2004 school year.

"Andi not only participated, but distinguished herself as the leading scorer for all sixth graders in her division of six teams.

"As all the final tabulations became available for the league, the Stoneham team was notified that Andi had become the top sixth grade scorer for the entire league. Andi outperformed all other sixth graders from 54 teams across the state. We congratulate her for a job well done.

"In addition, another sixth grader, Nathaniel Choi really came on strong and finished in a tie for seventh place."

More than welcome in Woburn

"Although this school year has wound down, officials are looking ahead to the first day of school next year and have several upcoming events designed to help incoming kindergarten students and their parents be more prepared and comfortable when that day arrives," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"New this year is a special program for first grade students as well.

"First the School Department held a 'Welcome to Kindergarten' meeting for parents on Wednesday, June 2 at the Joyce Middle School.

"Parents were introduced to the kindergarten program, the curriculum frameworks were reviewed and they were given the opportunity to meet and talk with their child's principal and teachers.

"There is also a new booklet available with the same name, 'Welcome to Kindergarten,' that includes information on: what children should know or know how to do before starting school (know their first and last names, their parents' names, when and how to use a tissue, wash their hands, open their lunch box, etc.); healthful habits (learning to put things away, do simple chores, get along with others); what parents should know for the first day of school (arrive on time, leave cheerfully, have a dress rehearsal, teach children crosswalk safety, talk about any concerns they might have); general school readiness throughout the year (learn the names of children's teachers, school rules, the bus schedule, understand the importance of school attendance - plan family vacations during school vacations, medical appointments after school, etc., get involved with the school); and specific developmental noted, 'We had over 290 cars lining up along Hemlock Road.'

"The pit permit-holding Wakefieldians who turned out at the event waited in line for as long as an hour to dispose of their hazardous materials at the bi-yearly collection.

"Local officials did distribute a survey to those who participated in the collection event and health officials plan to review the results and report back to the Board of Health members.

"In conjunction with the Wakefield Department of Public Works, staff from the Onyx Environmental Services were on hand to perform the actual collection. A similar event is expected to take place again in the fall...."

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA Who served as player, coach, and General Manager for the Boston Bruins? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•NORTH READING'S HARRY NORTON was recently named the Most Valuable PLayer of the Phillips Exeter Academy track team. He won the 3,000 meters and then took second in the 1,500 meters event at the recent New England Championships..

•READING'S ANDREA MADDEN, a senior member of the track and field team at Holy Cross, was named to the 2004 District I Women's Track and Field/Cross country Academic All-American First Team. She will now advance to the national ballot, which is expected tom be selected at the end of June. Madden qualified for the NCAA Regional Meet this past spring in the hammer throw with a school record toss of 54.31 meters. Madden placed 26th at the regional meet after an 11th place finish at the ECAC Championships. She was the Crusaders' top thrower and placed in the top three nine times during the outdoor season and five times during the indoor season in the hammer, shotput, discuss or weight throw. Madden placed third at the New England Championships and the Patriot League Championships in the hammer throw during the outdoor season. She was a Second team All-Patriot league selection during the indoor season in the weight throw and recorded the team's best throws in the shot put (11.73 meters), discus (35.84 meters), hammer throw (54.31) during the outdoor season. Outside of the athletic arena, Madden has recorded a 3.70 grade point average with a major in Mathematics and a minor in Physics. She organized a trip for 46 members of the track team to build a house for Habitat for Humanity in Tallahassee, Fla., over spring break. The national Academic All-American team will be selected from 80 athletes from eight different districts.

•Need some help on this week's trivia question? His initials are M.S.

•TEWKSBURY'S TOM SULLIVAN, a catcher and senior co-captain of the Amherst College baseball team this year, helped his team capture its first New England Small College Athletic Conference championship by hitting .276 with 22 RBI and 19 runs scored, to go along with three home runs.

•NORTH READING'S ADAM KACAMBURAS, a senior third baseman for the Tufts UNiversity baseball team, was selected as a third-team All New England player for his efforts this year. He finished the season with a .322 batting average and knocked in 21 runs.

•STONEHAM'S JON NICHOLAS, a junior pitcher on the Colby-Sawyer College baseball team, was named Commonwealth Coast Conference Pitcher of the Year and First Team All-Commonwealth Coast Conference for his efforts this year. Nicholas won six games for the third time in as many seasons and became the team's all-time victory leader with 18. he went 6-2 on the mound (5-0 in the CCC) with one save and led the staff with 53 innings and five complete games, while finishing second with 30 strikeouts. Nicholas, who was also given Broughton's Coach's Award, will enter his senior year needing only 1.1 innings and five strikeouts to take over first place in team history in both categories.

•THE COLONIAL ADULT MASTERS SYNCHRONIZED SKATING TEAM is recruiting new members for the 2003-2004 season. Prior experience on such a team is not needed, but eligible skaters must be age 25 by the preceding July 1. For more information call Team Manager Cheryl Milloy at 781-275-4476.

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: Bruins great Milt Schmidt served as player, coach and General Manager at various times for Boston's Black and Gold hockey team.

•DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? CELEBRATE AMERICA IN WINCHESTER

Join International Family church for "Celebrate America Sunday!" on Sunday, June 27 from 1-5 p.m. at 620 Washington Street in Winchester. An "old fashioned" Independence Day Party is planned with hot dogs, an apple pie bake-off, a kid's bicycle parade, a Classic Car Show, a Celebrate America "Shoot-out" basketball competition, and grandstand events.

Entertainment will include performances by recording artist Lamar Callahan and the Legacy Step Team and an "All American Talent Round Up" talent show with talent from several communities surrounding Winchester. All are welcome!

Kids will have a blast at the Bicycle Parade and Old Fashioned Kid's Arcade! The whole family will enjoy the food court with everything from sausages and pizza to ice cream and slush. International Family Church's State of the art Legacy Youth Center will be open for tours.

Reminisce about simpler times. Isn't it time to put America back into your July 4th celebration? Call Laura at 781-729-6033, x 330 for more information.

SAUGUS RIVER PICNIC & CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL

Come join the Saugus River Watershed Council and friends for a free picnic and children's festival at the Saugus Iron Works on Wednesday, June 30 from 6 p.m. to dusk. Bring a picnic supper and blanket or lawn chairs to enjoy a summer evening of fun for the whole family.

At 7 p.m. Paul Erickson will present The Ocean Rocks - rock and roll music of the aquatic kind for audiences of all ages. Get ready to dance with lobsters and sway to the rhythms of coral reefs. Additional music by Dave Simmons, Dick Lynch and friends.

Directions: from Rte 1 take Walnut Street exit toward Saugus/Lynn. Take right at first light onto Central Street. Follow signs to the Saugus Iron Works. For more information call 781-233-5046.

ADOPTION MEETING IN LOWELL

The Florence Crittenton League Adoption Agency is holding a general information meeting on Wednesday, July 14 at 7 p.m. at the Florence Crittenton League, 119 Hall St., Lowell.

Some adoptive couples will speak and the programs of the agency will be outlined. The Florence Crittenton League does identified adoptions and has programs in Russia, China, Ukraine, Guatemala and Colombia.

The Florence Crittenton League has been a long standing, non-profit agency since 1907. It offers adoption expertise in a warm, welcoming atmosphere.

Call the office at 978-452-9671 for more information.

HOST A NEW YORK CITY CHILD

Summer vacation, that special time of year for all children, is here. Thanks to the many families in the Andover area and throughout 13 northeastern states and Canada, more than 1.7 million New York city children from low income neighborhoods have experienced free summer vacations in suburban and small town communities through the Fresh Air Fund.

The Fund is seeking more families in the Andover area to give inner city children a 2 week vacation this summer.

To learn more about hosting a Fresh Air child this summer contact Monica Keeley at 978-921-1266 or call The fresh Air Fund at 800-367-0003.www.freshair.org.

HORIZONS FOR HOMELESS CHILDREN

Horizons for Homeless Children is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing programs and services for homeless children throughout Greater Boston and Mass. Horizons for Homeless children continues to recruit new volunteers to work with homeless children living in family and domestic violence shelters.

Horizons is seeking volunteers to interact and play with children living in family and domestic violence shelters in your neighborhood. A commitment of 2 hours a week for 6 months is required. With daytime and evening shifts and over 52 shelters in the network, there is likely to be one that fits your schedule.

It is a rewarding and fun experience for everyone involved. The next training is on August 2 and 3 from 6 - 9 p.m. Call Karin at 617-287-1900, ext 306 for more information. www.horizonsforhomelesschildren.org.

GERMAN SOMMERFEST JUNE 26 AND 27

A German Sommerfest will be held on Saturday, June 26 and Sunday June 27. The Boylston Schul-Verein, the largest German-American club in New England, will host its annual gala two day Sommerfest on its spacious grounds. Music will be supplied by the Matt LeBar Band from Toronto, Canada.

There will be dancing in the huge outdoor pavilion, tasty German food and grilled meats, German potato pancakes, delicious German pastries and cold refreshments. German souvenirs and specialty items will be on sale. For children, supervised games, pony rides, face painting and balloons.

Times are Saturday noon to 11 p.m. and Sunday noon to 6 p.m. Donation is $5 per person, children under 12 free, wheelchair accessible.

The Boylston Schul-Verein is located on Route 109 in Walpole, right at the Westwood line, just minutes from Route 128. For additional information call 508-660-2018 daily or 781-431-6715 Monday - Friday.

LIFELONG LEARNING PROGRAM

The Lifelong Learning Program at UMass Boston called LETS (LifeEnrichment Through Studies), will hold an Open House on Thursday, June 24 at Ryan Lounge, 3rd fl., McCormack Hall, UMass Boston campus from 10 a.m. to noon. Participants will learn about the program and its offerings as well as meet instructors who will be teaching in the fall. Refreshments, open to the public.

Sponsored by UMass Boston's Gerontology Institute, LETS was established in 1999 and has been successful in attracting over 290 older learners who are interested in taking non-credit courses and participating in its social events and lectures throughout the year.

LETS members come from over 54 Mass. communities, particularly from the south shore areas, South Boston, Quincy and Dorchester.

Each year over 50 non-credit courses and lectures on a variety of topics as well as social events will be offered. Some fall courses are: Terrorism and International Conflicts, Current Events, Best American Short Stories 2003, Classical Mythology, Masterpieces of European films, Writing Stories, Essays, and Memoirs, Music of the Classical and Romantic Periods, and Computer/Internet courses (designed for seniors).

In addition to short term seminars, LETS members participate in monthly lectures and social events on and off campus. They also receive other benefits such as free access to UMass Boston's library and athletic facilities. Call 617-287-7312 or visit www.lets.umb.edu for more information.

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

"THE TERMINAL"

MOVIE: "THE TERMINAL"
GRADE: *

Tom Hanks and director Steve Spielberg team up for this sweet tale of an immigrant trapped in an airport.

An immigrant (Hanks) fleeing the war that ravages his tiny Eastern European homeland finds himself stuck in the terminal of one of New York City's airports when the time of his landing coincides precisely with the point at which the war causes his nation of origin to no longer exist, meaning that his passport and paperwork are no longer valid. As a man without a home, he takes up residence in the terminal itself, befriending the staff of the airport, and falling in love with an airline flight attendant.

The movie plays on the same charm that Hanks displayed in 'Forrest Gump', as his character learns to live in the microcosm of American life that unfolds daily in airports across the country. Zeta-Jones is also very good.

This film is a breath of fresh air in a summer season filled with movies that bank more on explosions than artistic efforts.

SHORTTAKES

MOVIE: "THE CHRONICLES OF RIDDICK"
GRADE: *

This movie does a fair;y decent job of setting the table fora brand-new science fiction universe, whose producers hope will become fruitful as the 'Star Wars' or 'Star Trek' series have become.

The main character Riddick, played by Vin Diesel, who was part of an ensemble of characters in the cult-favorite sci-fi horror film 'Pitch Black' from five years ago. The film's producers have since seen Diesel's box office clout rise, and have hitched their wagon to his star, so to speak, and created a series about the mysterious man with glowing eyes.

In the five years since 'Pitch Black' Riddick, a wise-cracking, renegade killing machine, has been on the run from authorities and bounty hunters. When a mysterious alien race called the Necromongers begins destroying one world after another, and threatens the homeworld of one of the few people Riddick trusts, he is called back to civilization to take on the greatest threat the populated universe has ever known.

The special effects are very good, and Riddick is a likable enough character. The director does a fairly good job of setting up the mythos and legends that populate this particular galaxy, though one has a hard time imagining where the storyline could go over any potential sequels they hope to make..

MOVIE: "HARRY POTTER AND THE PRISONER OF AZKABAN"
GRADE: *

This book is widely-regarded as the darkest and scariest of the five books written by author J.K. Rowling about the adventures of the whiz-kid Harry Potter, and the movie lives up to that reputation.

Director Alfonso Cuaron takes the movie series down a dark and scary path, one that might be too much to take for the youngest of fans. The plot involves an escaped murderer, Sirius Black, who was once heard mumbling in his sleep something about Hogwarts, the school that Harry and company attend to learn about all things candy.

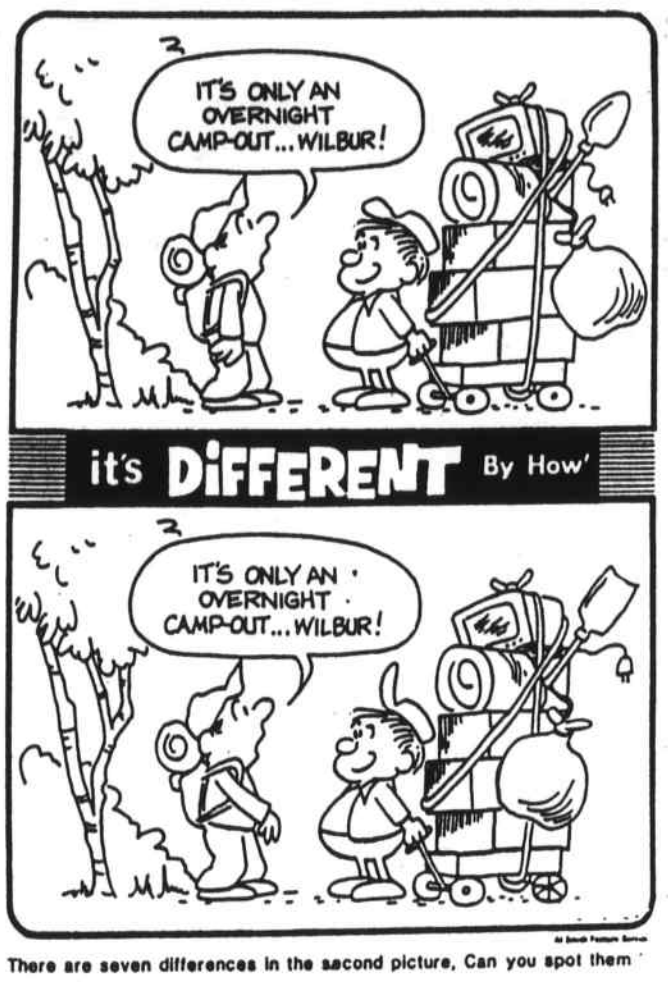

MOVIE: "SHREK 2"
GRADE: **

It's rare when a sequel is on par with the original hit that spawned it, but this one is the real deal.

The big green guy is back with his new bride, Fiona, and sidekick Donkey (Mike Myers, Cameron Diaz and Eddie Murphy reprise their roles in all three cases), and the storyline picks up almost right where the first movie left off. Shrek and Fiona, having just wed, make a journey to meet her parents, and the usual problems with inlaws develop between Shrek and his new family members, played by John Cleese and Julie Andrews.

Antonio Banderas' portrayal of Puss in Boots, although brief on screen, almost steals the movie.

Some of the jokes may be over the heads of the little ones in the audience, but they will give the parents something to smile about. As with the first one, knowing going into it that the Shrek universe pokes fun at the Disney Corporation any opportunity it gets helps one to see some of the more subtle jokes.

There are seven differences in the second picture. Can you spot them

TREE, ARM, CAP, WHEEL, ELECTRIC PLUG, SACK, SHOVEL.

WWII From S-8

We paused for an hour or so to traverse the interior of the newly developed site. The Memorial Monument vividly depicts all segments of the dedicated contributions of both civil defense workers and military combatants, with various panels, displaying scenes of strength and unity, in a commemorative area. It would take countless words to fully describe and properly relate the many aspects of this magnificent Memorial. You simply have to visit it; analyze it to thoroughly appreciate its intended significance - a truly memorable experience!

In the afternoon, we moved on to the MCI Center where we were privileged to mingle with an audience of 17,000 spectators to fully enjoy the first of four performances displayed by an extremely talented group of actors, musicians, entertainers and military personnel. It was a two-part show. The first segment was entitled "Remembrance of Things Past" and related to family life on the home front during the period of strife.

The second component, "Tribute to a Generation," was musically motivated with an orchestrated series of Glenn Miller songs related to that period. Verily, a splendid performance.

The Writer and Executive Director of this glowing exhibition is Mark Murray, a civilian employee of the U.S. Army, and was contracted by the WWII Memorial Commission to produce this impressive spectacle. He resides in Fairfax, Virginia. For your general information, I recently learned he is planning a similar show titled "Spirit of America" which will be presented at the Worcester Centrum on Sept. 10 and 11.

That evening, an unscheduled tour of Washington was offered by Ben, our driver. Most everyone went along to further enjoy the view of the lighted sights of our Nation's Capitos City.

The main event on Saturday was certainly an unbelievable sight to behold. A reported assembly of 117,000 people gathered in the immediate vicinity of this soon-to-be Historic Site to participate in the very much alive Dedication Ceremony among a sea of waving American flags and the vibrant sounds of patriotic music and songs.

The dedication ceremony was tranquil while the WWII National Memorial Monument was presented to our Nation, and gracefully accepted by President George W. Bush in behalf of the people of the United States of America! A deeply touching and heartfelt experience. A memorable event never to be forgotten.

A striking reminder to each of us to constantly remember, and offer prayers for the proper salvation of all the Civilian population who labored long and hard to provide the necessary materials that greatly assisted our combat forces to an inevitable victory, and to all our Military Forces who sacrificed their lives to safeguard and maintain our Freedom and Liberty. May God Bless America!

NATIONAL WWII MEMORIAL

from S-1

THE GROUP of area veterans and their families gather in front of the monument dedication to Massachusetts veterans at the World War II Memorial. The bus trip was organized by the Burlington and Woburn veteran's offices. Some 30 veterans and another 20 family members and friends made the trip.

WHILE AT THE HOTEL just outside Washington, in Alexandria, VA. where the group stayed for the dedication ceremonies, the delegation from Woburn ran into noted "60 Minutes" correspondent Mike Wallace (second from right). Among the group are (l-r) Woburn State Rep. Carol Donovan, Mary Riga, Maureen Comeiro, Wallace, "Ricky" D'Addario, and Rose Toomey.

to Rt. 128 by a cruiser, courtesy of the Woburn Police Department. Many local residents waved enthusiastically and exclaimed words of encouragement and best wishes!

Seated up front were our two delightful Hostesses, Irene Simas and Diane Neary of CS Cruises & Tours, along with Joe Simas, Woburn's Veterans Service Officer, and Lou DePaolo and Jack Sullivan of Yankee Holidays who appropriately provided our group pertinent information, precise directions and kept our Woburn unit properly organized at all times during our various movements to insure that no individual strayed or was left behind. Refreshments were frequently distributed to add more satisfaction to an already comfortable bus ride.

Among the excited and anxious passengers were former Army Nurses Alyce Benn of Woburn and Loretta Doucette of East Falmouth who were joined by Jennie Rinn who traveled from San Antonio with her daughter, Nancy and niece, Sue, to be reunited with her war buddies who had served together with the 148th General Hospital in Saipan and the Marianas in the Central Pacific area, Also on board was Rose Toomey, patriotically garbed in a colorful outfit of red, white and blue. She was present to represent her deceased husband. She was accompanied by daughters, Kathy and Tricia.

Maureen Comeiro and Regina Higgins, daughters of deceased Army Veteran, Bob Higgins, were present to acknowledge and stand for his memory and military service. They were in the company of their good friend, Joanne Collins, Director of the Woburn Senior Center. Navy Veteran Joe Coburn, related a hilarious story about how he inherited the nickname "Pineapple Joe" from his delighted crew members.

The younger generation, in the persons of hostess Diane Neary's daughter, Jennifer, her bosom friends Jill and Nicole, along with Diane, daughter of your correspondent, "Woody" Ford, displayed gleeful eagerness, and were a profound joy as they revealed their knowledge of the purpose of the forth-coming event and their desire to share in the ceremony.

It would require reams of newsprint to record the litany of military and combat experiences exchanged between the Veterans. Suffice to record, despite some emotional displays, the remarks were treasured by the listeners.

On Friday morning, we were provided with a guided sightseeing tour of Washington, expertly narrated by George Sweger of Annapolis. He is a former teacher of history at University of Massachusetts, located in Amherst. His knowledge of the history of the monuments and government buildings was fabulous.

WWII TO S-6

Mike Lynch from S-1

It is no wonder that Lynch seems to be a very friendly person. He always seems to get ahead with the willing help of friends.

Another case of friendship resulted in Lynch meeting the former Mary Ellen Mullaney of Winchester, who was a friend of a teammate. The two are now married and have three daughters – Kelly Ann, a Boston College senior, Molly, a Boston College freshman and Katey, a sophomore at Winchester High School.

Of his daughters, Lynch said, "They're all very good in their own right. Aside from sports they also sing and act.

"I enjoy watching them."

As one can imagine, Lynch is in the enviable position of being a person who is thoroughly able to enjoy his work. When asked what he liked best, Lynch replied: "Football has been a lot of fun, especially with the Patriots. The Celtics in the 80's wee a lot of fun and the Bruins were a lot of fun too."

He has also enjoyed reporting on Marvin Hagler and local high school sports.

Before broadcasting, Lynch had always played sports even in high school where he played basketball, as well as football and baseball. To this day he still follows local high school sports.

In 1985, shortly after he was named principal sports anchor, Lynch initiated "High Five," a weekly NewsCenter 5 report highlighting the achievements of high school student athletes.

According to the television station's website (www.thebostonchannel.com), "The unique segments have been lauded by critics and received numerous honors for a continuing commitment to covering high school athletics."

According to his bio on the website, "Since 1995, Lynch has hosted the weekly sports program "Patriots All Access," a behind-the-scenes look at New England's NFL franchise. During the NFL pre-season, Lynch serves as a broadcast commentator during Patriots games.

"He has also done play-by-play coverage for the Boston Celtics, New England Patriots and college football. For 11 years, he hosted the Boston College weekly football coach's show "Eagles Preview" on Channel 5."

Going out on a limb, Lynch predicts a good showing for the Patriots this year.

"I think the Patriots will be right in the thick of it," he said. "They are one of the most unselfish teams I've ever seen and that is a large part of their success. They are a well coached team."

As for the Red Sox, Lynch hopes the pitching will come together. He is close to the team, especially during home stands when he broadcasts his sports reports from Fenway Park as often as possible. In the winter he broadcasts from the Fleet Center before and after every Celtics and Bruins home game.

Lynch said, "I hope to stay with Channel five, I've been there for 21 years. I have no interest in leaving this area."

He added, "The trick is to keep the job by staying young and staying interesting."

Lynch conceded that young people today will have it a little tougher to break into the business because of the lack of small radio and television stations. However, he notes there is still plenty of opportunity especially at the local level with local access cable stations.

"If you're in high school get involved with the high school paper or cable broadcasts of sporting events," Lynch advises young people interested in the field. "Get as much hands-on experience, both in front of and behind the camera, as possible.

"The same is true with college sports."

Lynch notes that almost every town has a local access high school broadcast and the active student can get a lot of practical experience doing play-by-play or color announcing at the local games.

As a youngster, Lynch played on Swampscott's Little League All-Star team and noted it was a highlight of his younger days. He has been enjoying the success over the last two years of the Little League All-Stars from Saugus and Worcester who made it to World Series play-offs in Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

"The kids don't care if they are on television," Lynch said, "they just like the excitement."

He hopes that the parents will just let the kids enjoy their moment in the sun and added, "I think the parents should just leave the kids alone."

Lynch's bio notes: "From 1985 to '91 and again in 1998 and 1999, Lynch was voted Massachusetts "Sportscaster of the Year" by the National Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association. In 1987, SportsCenter 5 won the United Press International Award for "Best Sports Reporting" in the country."

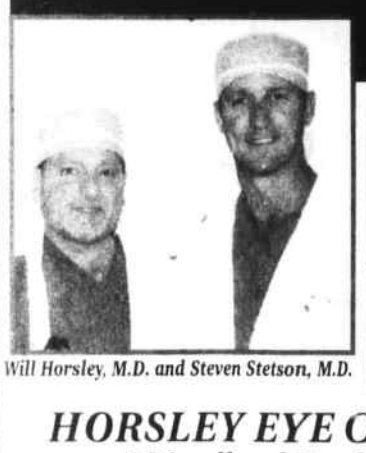

"Christi ~ I love your smile. Thanks for being a terrific patient!"

Middlesex East Real Estate SAMPLER

This Week Reading

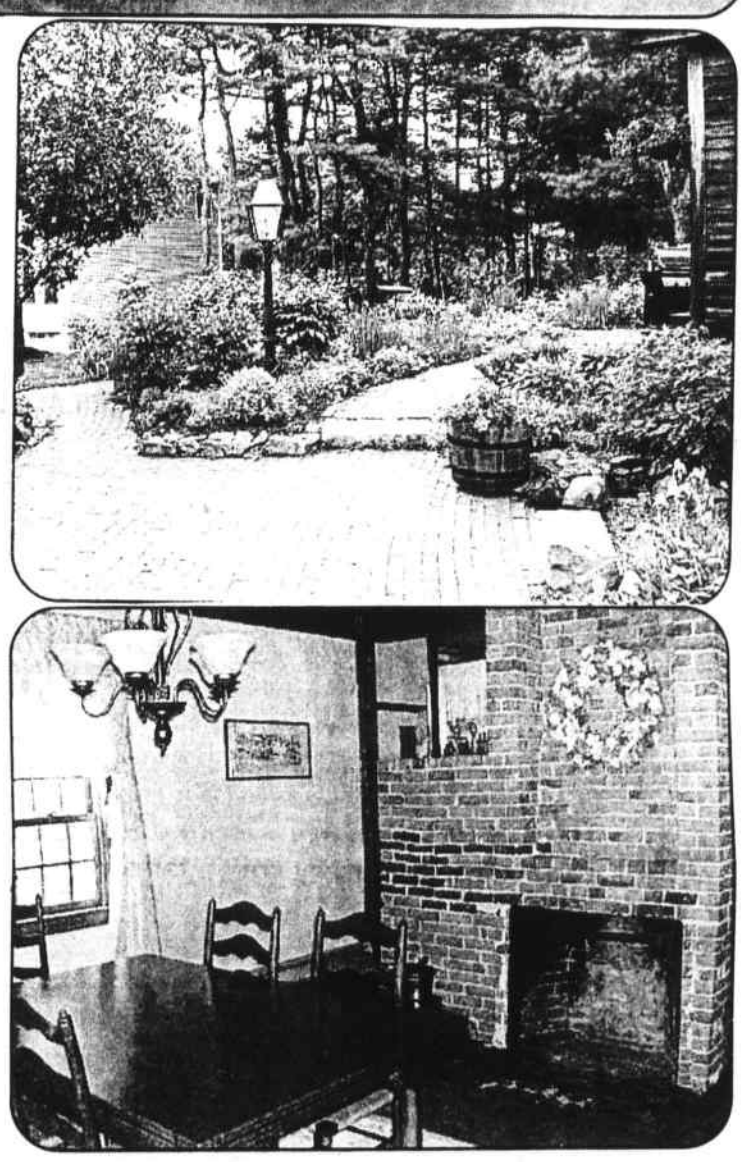

The Daniel Nichols House

This week's sampler is one of Reading's finest older homes "The Daniel Nichols House". Antique lovers take note! This breathtaking home with its country setting and stone wall has all the charm of yesteryear yet all the conveniences of today. When approaching this home, you are immediately impressed with the granite steps and brick walkways surrounded by perennial gardens.

Upon entering you are taken by the beautiful wide pine floors which flow through the entire house. Walking into the dining room you are immediately taken back by one of the six fireplaces. Beehive ovens, granite countertops and stainless steel appliances give the feel of a modern gourmet kitchen but the open beamed cathedral ceiling and walk-in pantry give this kitchen a hint of years past. The formal living room has a charm all its own with "Rufus Porter" like hand painted murals and built-in bookshelves. French doors lead to a first floor office/bedroom. The family room also has beehive ovens and a 2nd

Battling rust and iron stains

A common household problem that many people living in suburban areas struggle with is rust and iron stains that are the result of hard water.

While well water is safe for human consumption, it often leaves unsightly orange stains on just about everything that it comes into contact with, including basins, toilet bowls, washing machines, dishwashers, clothing and even a home's exterior.

Ordinary household cleaners are not designed to eliminate iron and rust stains. Instead, these discolorations require products which are specifically designed to solve this particular dilemma.

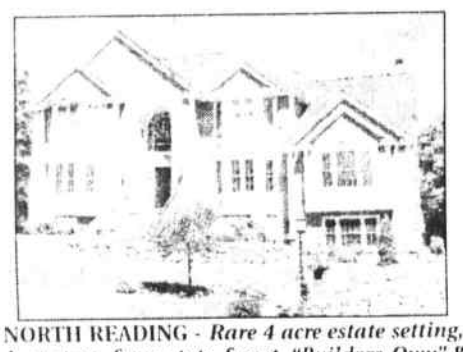

The most effective way to combat iron stains is to use a specially formulated reducing agent that specifically targets rust.

To remove rust stains inside a toilet bowl, raise the water level as high as possible and then add the reducing agent directly to the water. To remove stains and build-up from the toilet tank, add one half cup of Super Iron Out and let the solution stand overnight.

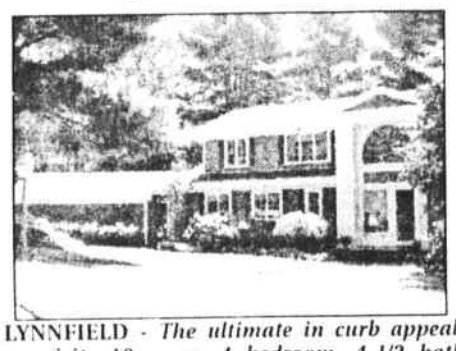

To reduce rust build-up in household water softeners and clean the resin bed, one needs an effective and safe product. One product that has been shown to be consistently effective is Super Iron Out. It can be added safely to a water softener to stop rust build-up without

Clean up your act-exterior style

Now is the time to get a jump-start on exterior projects for parts of the home that require a bit of sprucing up.

First, tackle the gutters. Many leaves and twigs can accumulate in a home's gutters. Cleaning out the gutters to prepare for rain may prevent possible damage to paint or water leakage.

Also, check to see if the home's spouting system is in good working condition. Ensure that the alignment is correct so that drainage flows properly.

Snow, rain, ice and other harsh conditions can significantly damage a house's roof.

Take a couple of moments to grab a ladder and investigate the roof's appearance. Clean off excess debris by using a broom or brush in order to prevent moisture build-up, possible decay and to aide in rainwater run-off.

Also, check the roof for loose, split or broken pieces of shingle.

For a quick fix, use a premium grade roof tile adhesive like the Pro-Series RT 600 Roof Tile Adhesive from OSI Sealants, Inc. This product will withstand the high roof temperatures and create a water and weather-resistant seal.

For more information, go online to www.osiproseries.com.

When you make your way down off the ladder, take time to examine the driveway.

Concrete driveways tend to dry and develop cracks from exposure to harsh weather. Be sure to check for cracks, depressed areas and holes.

Fill-in any defects with caulk to keep water from seeping under the driveway. Water seepage will further damage the driveway, resulting in more extensive cracking in the future.

After completing the necessary repairs, keep your driveway looking its best by applying stone patios. In both cases, the rust rinses away completely without causing any damage to fabric or the patio.

With the correct type of product, rust stains can be eliminated quickly and easily. Fore more tips online, log onto www.ironout.com or call 800-654-0791 entering the water supply.

For regular use, layer a quarter cup over every 40 pounds of salt that is used.

Iron dissolvers such as Super Iron Our are extremely versatile. They are gentle enough to be added to the washing machine to fight rust stains on white and color-fast clothing, yet they're tough enough to remove rust from a coat of sealant. Not only does it give the driveway a fresh, newly paved look, but the sealant will protect the pavement from everyday wear and tear while providing protection from the sun, gasoline and oil spills and drips.

Imagine painting a room with light

Imagine a window covering that could "paint" a home's rooms with light, a totally new window fashion - louvers that seem to float in front of your windows, combining the architectural statement of a shutter, the softness, durability and convenience of a shade and the variable light control of a blind.

A company that, ever since inventing the first lightweight aluminum blind in the 1940's, has been innovating new ways to cover windows. They've now imagined a new product that fits the above description and applied its know-how to producing it.

The window covering, from Hunter Douglas, consists of soft, elliptically shaped fabric louvers with a pivoting headrail that is part shutter, part shade, part blind and all about the art of controlling light.

The extra-wide 2 3/4 louvers soften and diffuse light with their elliptical, cellular shape. They also control it by rotating 180 degrees from fully opened to fully closed - and anywhere in between - in either direction.

What's more, the louvers raise and lower like a shade and appear to float at the window because there are only two front support cords.

Alouette Light Louvers offer an exclusive pivotal operating system so the color-coordinated headrail and bottom rail - which are also elliptical in shape - pivot with the louvers, virtually disappearing into them for integrated form and function.

A myriad of fabric options make Alouette Light Louvers coordinate with any decor, from traditional to contemporary. The translucent Clair and room-darkening Clair de Lune (considered ideal for bedrooms and media rooms) come in 50 fashionable color and pattern combinations.

Fabric options include a solid print, a traditional linen weave and a print with the look of hand-sponging. There's even a choice in how they are operated: tilt bar, lift tab or tilt shuttle, depending on preference or window type or location.

Due to its unique lightweight fabric construction, this product is now available in widths up to 84" and lengths up to a generous 120".

The cellular construction insulates against summer heat and winter cold due to the air which is trapped within the louvers. These window coverings also protect against 99 percent of the ultraviolet rays when closed.

Although the window treatment looks light and delicate, the non-woven fabrics and carefree bounce-back features mean it's durable and easy to maintain.

The louvers can be easily be cleaned with a feather duster, low-suction vacuum attachment or compressed air. Spot cleaning is also easy using a damp, soft cloth.

Adding a redwood deck?

Do you have a little-used side yard where no one goes because access is difficult? A small redwood deck added to the side of the house or a wrap-around extension of a larger deck form the back can turn the space into a gathering place for friends and family.

Want to maximize opportunities for sun and minimize blasts from the wind and rain? A properly positioned deck can help.

Some homeowners add a deck simply because there's a door - or a set of double doors - that doesn't lead anywhere. Others choose to install a deck to bring more living space and added value to the home, or to reduce their overall landscape maintenance.

And for people who just want a place to unwind, decks can be designed with built-in hot tubs or lap pools, with fences added for privacy.

No matter what the reason for adding a deck, it's important to use building materials that last the longest with the least amount of wear.

One of the most enduring types of wood for outdoor use is redwood. Not only do many find it to be naturally beautiful, it also is durable and naturally resistant to decay and insect damage.

Redwood's cell structure walls help reduce shrinking and swelling. Redwood is a favorite among builders, too, because it is lightweight but strong; it bonds well; it is easy to saw, nail and drill; and it has few messy resins.

Want to get started on building a new redwood deck but don't know how to begin? Order the information booklets "Redwood Landscape Architecture" and "Redwood Deck Construction" from the California Redwood Association. Send $2 for both booklets to California Redwood Association, Dept. DK-03, 405 Enfrente Dr., Suite 200, Novato, CA 94949.

For general information about redwood and deck-building advice, visit www.calredwood.org.

Protect your family when power fails

Recently, the unthinkable happened: 50 million Americans lost power in the largest blackout in United States history. In some areas, it was days before full power was restored.

Most people have experienced the nuisance of a short power outage, but what would happen if you, or worse, you child, used to entering your home with the aid of a keypad or remote control, was locked out due to a power outage?

The Chamberlain Group Inc., the world's largest manufacturer or garage door openers and accessories, has introduced a new garage door opener battery back-up system to help ease homeowner's minds should a power failure occur.

The EverCharge batter back-up system model 475LM created to work with the LiftMaster Estate Series model 2500 garage door opener, will keep the garage door opener and wireless keypad running for up to two days in the event of a power outage, allowing for uninterrupted access using the wall control panel, remote control and wireless keypad.

"There is no guarantee against a blackout - as evidenced by the summer outage that affected millions of people across the Northeast and into Canada," said Ken Rochl, vice president of marketing for Chamberlain Professional Products.

"People want to feel secure knowing that they and their families can access a home during a power outage. The new battery back-up system is the perfect way to offer that security by providing uninterrupted garage door opening service."

All vital security functions - like the automatic safety reverse function, remains working when the garage door opener is working off battery power.

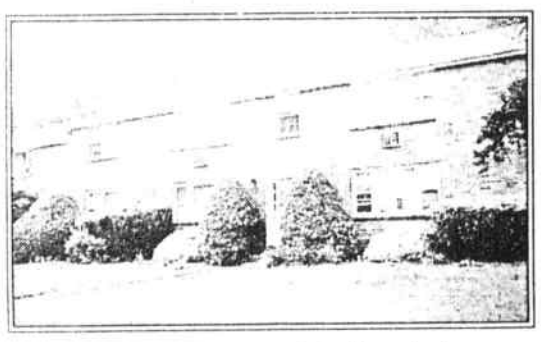

Looking for other ways to safeguard you and your family against the next inevitable power outage? Prepare today by gathering a few basic emergency supplies and placing them in an emergency kit that's easy to locate in the dark.

Suggested items for an emergency kit include:

- A corded phone (cordless phones don't work when the power it out.)
- Bottled water
- Canned or dried food (and can opener).
- Working flashlight and batteries.
- Battery-operated radio for news and weather reports.
- Blankets.
- Battery-powered lanterns for use as a light source (candles pose a fire hazard.)

FOR SALE

Profitable Small Business

Due to retirement, I am looking to sell my business that I have owned and successfully operated for 26 years. It consists mostly of new and replacement gutter jobs, but I have done siding, decks, window replacement, etc. over the years.

2 trucks, ladders, power tools, gutter machine/trailer and miscellaneous equipment are included.

This is an excellent opportunity to own your own business that is continually active.
The potential for more growth is excellent.
